VIRGINIA BAR ASSOCIATION

It Is Addressed Thursday by Judge Taft.

TO PROMOTE PEACE AND TRANQUILITY

Is the Chief Aim and Object of the State.

The Aim of the Law Is To Secure Equal and Exact Justice Between Individuals and Between the State, Representing All Persons of a Community, and an Offending Individual Just for Love of Justice.

Hot Springs, Va., Aug. 5.—Before the convention of the Virginia Bar association, Republican Candidate Taft today said in part:

The chief reason why the state devotes so much time and effort in the administration of justice between individuals in private litigation and between the state and persons charged with crime in public litigation, is to promote the cause of peace and tranquility in the community. Speaking theoretically and abstractly, of course, our aim is to secure equal and exact justice between individuals and between the state, representing all persons in a community, and an offending individual just for the love of justice, but practically the objects sought are peace, tranquility and contentment among the people. While we may properly felicitate ourselves on this function of our courts enabling us to avoid less peaceable methods allowed us to settle politico-legal questions, have we the right to say that our present administration of justice generally insures continued popular satisfaction with its results? I think not. The present is a time when all our institutions are being subjected to close scrutiny with a view to the determination whether we have come, in the institutions upon which modern society rests, to the point of proving that some of them should be radically changed.

The Chief Attack.

The chief attack is on the institution of private property and is based upon the inequalities in the distribution of wealth and of human happiness that are apparent in our present system. As I have had occasion in other places to say frequently, I believe that the institution of private property, next to that of personal liberty, has had most to do with the uplifting and physical and moral improvement of the whole human race, but that it is not inconsistent with the rights of private property to impose limitations upon its uses for unlawful purposes, and that this is the remedy for reform rather than the abolition of the institution itself. Our present system, while not perfect, is not so far from proper results as calls for anxiety. The judges of the country, both state and national, are on an average good men. Venality in our judges is very rare; and while the standard of judicial ability and learning may not be always as high as we should like to see it, the provisions for review and for free and impartial hearing are such as generally to give just final judgments.

An Inequality Exists.

The inequality that exists in our present administration of justice and that sooner or later is certain to rise and trouble us, and to call for popular condemnation and reform, is in the unequal burden with which the delays and expense of litigation under our present system impose upon the poor. I know the delays have induced merchants and commercial men to avoid courts altogether and to settle their controversies by arbitration and to this extent the courts have been relieved; but such boards of arbitration are only possible between those litigants that are members of the same commercial body and are in a sense associates. They offer no relief to the litigant of little means, who finds himself engaged in a controversy with a wealthy opponent. It is inevitable that with an elaborate code, the expense of a suit involving a small sum is in proportion far greater than that involving a large sum. Hence, it results that the cost of justice to the poor is always greater than it is to the rich, assuming that the poor are more often interested in small cases than the rich in large ones, a fairly reasonable assumption. One reason for delay in the lower courts is the disposition of judges to await an undue length of time in the writing of their opinions or judgments. I speak with confidence on this point, for I have been one of the sinners myself.

A General Proposition.

It may be asserted as a general proposition to which many legislatures seem to be oblivious that everything which tends to prolong or delay litigation between individuals, or between individuals and corporations, is a great advantage for that litigant who has the longer purse. Every change of procedure that limits the right of appeal works for the benefit in the end of the poor litigant and puts him more on an equality with a wealthy opponent. It is probably true that the disposition of the litigation in the end is more likely to be just, when three tribunals have passed upon it than when only one or two have settled it; but the injustice which meantime has been done by the delay to the party originally entitled to the judgment generally exceeds the advantage that he has in ultimately winning the case. The shortening of the time will reduce the expense, because, first, the fees of the lawyers must be less if the time taken is not so great. Second, that incidental court fees and costs would be less.

Again, I believe that a great reform might be effected, certainly in the federal courts, and I think, too, in the state courts, by a mandatory reduction of the court costs and fees. I think another step in the direction of the despatch of litigation would be

GIBBONS IS SOME BETTER

Shows Gain from His Illness of Wednesday.

HE IS SUFFERING OF INTESTINAL TROUBLE

Confined to His Bed at Castle Gandolfo.

The Doctors Attribute the Cardinal's Ailment to Over-Exertion Since He Arrived in Rome, August 1—The Pope Sends a Special Messenger to the Cardinal's Temporary Home To Express His Sympathy.

Rome, Aug. 6.—Cardinal Gibbons is slightly improved today after his serious attack of intestinal trouble yesterday at Castel Gandolfo. He is still confined to his bed.

The doctors attribute the cardinal's ailment to over-exertion since he arrived in Rome, August 1. The cardinal went to Castel Gandolfo Monday to visit the villa of the American college.

When the Pope learned of the cardinal's illness, he sent a special messenger to the cardinal's temporary home, expressing his sympathy and hope for a speedy recovery. The cardinal is seventy-four years old, celebrating his last anniversary July 23, while aboard the Konig Albert enroute to Rome.

There is some doubt as to whether the Cardinal will be able to attend the meeting of the congregation of the propaganda on August 10 and the Eucharistic congress in London a week later. After this latter meeting, the cardinal and Archbishop Farley had planned to spend several days in Ireland visiting the homes of their relatives.

STEVENSON HAS THE O K OF BRYAN

That's the View of the Politicians of Windy City.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Politicians are today discussing the report that William J. Bryan has put his O. K. on the candidacy of Adlai E. Stevenson, former vice president, for the Democratic nomination for governor of Illinois. It is pointed out that avowed Bryan men like M. F. Dunlap and Judge Owen Thompson are supporting Stevenson and it is not forgotten that the former vice president did not announce his intentions of running until after conferring with Bryan.

Strike May Come.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Unless a settlement is made today, the strike of electrical workers in the West Park system may involve about 3,000 park employes affiliated with the Associated Building Trades.

Mobile Is Chosen.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 6.—Mobile was this afternoon selected as the next meeting place for the Knights of Columbus.

CUMMINS TO GET THE TOGA

That's the Prediction of the Wise Ones.

SAY THAT HE'S THE CHOICE OF PRESIDENT

And That President Will Name the Senator.

Thus Is Peace To Be Accomplished in Iowa, Where Colonel Bryan Anticipated an Open Fight in the Ranks of the Republican Party. Ohio Is the Only State, Now, Which Is Causing Worry.

New York, Aug. 6.—The next senator from Iowa will probably be named at Oyster Bay, and with the naming one of the two most dangerous situations worrying Republican leaders will be righted. The influence of the president is believed to be strong enough to straighten out the Iowa tangle, without his openly taking a hand. Since he is a warm friend of Governor Albert B. Cummins, the wise ones say there is no doubt that Cummins will be Allison's successor.

Iowa and Ohio have been the two states that have caused the deepest wrinkles across Chairman Hitchcock's brow. Now there is a chance that what might have been open ruction in Iowa may become political tranquility. The death of Senator Allison has changed conditions and is certain to be reflected in the presidential election.

Peace in Sight.

Bryan men, who have been counting on an open Republican fight in Iowa, now fear that the president's influence will bring peace from the muddle caused by Allison's death.

During the recent primary in which Cummins was defeated by Allison for the senatorial nomination, the president kept his hands off. Senator Allison had been of service to the administration, was the oldest senator in congress and was a power in the party. No matter how strong his friendship for Cummins might have been interference was out of the question. Now, however, the case is different. Cummins is reputed to be the strongest man politically in Iowa.

Roosevelt's Liking Shown.

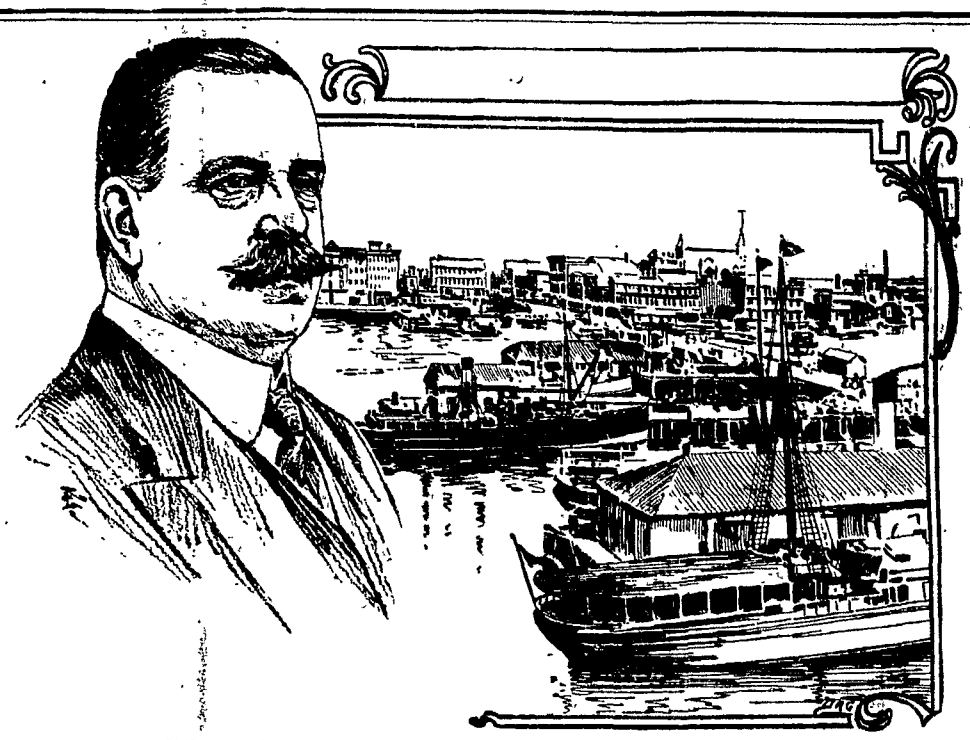
The president's liking for Cummins was shown, politicians say, by his urgency in endeavoring to get Senator Dolliver to become a candidate for the vice presidency. Dolliver declined because it was admitted that if he resigned, Cummins would be given a seat in the senate and the fruits of Allison's victory would be nullified. Now Cummins has the power to appoint Allison's successor. This would weaken the Allison forces and practically give the governor opportunity to gain control of the state legislature. He might have to fight to do it, however, and that is what the Democrats had hoped would occur. But should Cummins have the support of the president, together with his own strength, it is considered improbable by those who are watching the game here that there would be any fight. The strength of the president in Iowa is not doubted by his lieutenants here. They declare that his word quietly passed down the line would be enough to throw the balance even were Cummins, who has a strong personal following, and is fought more by the old line members than by the people, weaker than he is.

ORDERS ISSUED TO SUPPRESS BRIGANDS

Commander of Algerian Troops Gets Instructions from France.

Paris, Aug. 6.—The ministry of war today notified the commander of the French troops in Algeria to concentrate all available troops in the province of Constantine to suppress the brigands who are preying on the victims of Tuesday's earthquake. Unless the outrages of these outlaws are quickly checked, their victims will outnumber the deaths occasioned by the quake. Whole villages are being looted and the defenseless population shot down wherever resistance is offered.

Reports of the number of natives killed in the quake are still incomplete. It is now believed that the number will reach 1,000 as fresh evidences of the destructiveness of the disaster are found in nearly every affected town and village.



SIR JOSEPH WARD, PREMIER, AND AUCKLAND HARBOR, WHERE OUR FLEET WILL BE WELCOMED.

Sir Joseph Ward, the premier of New Zealand, and the various government officials made extensive preparations to greet the American battleship fleet on its cruise around the world. Auckland was the first stop scheduled after leaving Honolulu, and the first communication received from the fleet after it passed out of wireless range of the Sandwich Islands was when the ships passed Tutuila, in the Samoan islands. Wireless messages were transmitted through the Panther and the Yankton to the Glazier, the supply ship, and by that vessel were relayed to Suva, in the Fiji islands. Thence the messages were sent by cable to Vancouver, B. C.

OFFERED AS A SACRIFICE

Chicago Police Hold the Padrone System

RESPONSIBLE FOR DEATH OF YOUTH

Believe That Lad Is a Young White Slave.

Hold That He Is Murdered for Revealing or Threatening To Reveal the Secrets of the Dealers in Human Chattels—The Body Is Not Only Frightfully, but Also Most Viciously Mutilated.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—The theory that the boy whose mutilated torso was found in the drainage canal late yesterday was the victim of an atrocious murder by Greek padrones, was partially confirmed today when the police found a ghastly human head in a clay hole on the edge of the canal half a mile from the scene of yesterday's grewsome discovery. With the head were found four human ribs, broken violently at their ends and evidently torn violently from a human body and twisted and torn in detachment.

The head was that of a Greek boy, with aquiline nose and all the characteristic features of the Greek race. It was not mutilated and the features are clear and distinct, furnishing the strongest clew the police have yet uncovered in one of the most mysterious cases of murder they have ever been called on to solve. The head and ribs were wrapped in a local newspaper dated July 7, 1908.

The head was discovered by three boys playing in a clay hole on the canal bank.

Head Fits Torso.

Experiments with the head showed that it fitted the torso found yesterday. During the experiments, a closer inspection of the torso was made by Coroner's Physician W. H. Hunter and not until then was the full horror of the crime revealed. A great hole had been cut in the front of the torso and the heart and lungs removed entirely. The heart was sliced into circular pieces and one circular slice had been placed back in the torso. The intestines had been cut out, chopped into fine bits and then put back into the abdominal cavity.

Into the cavity in the torso, one foot of the victim had been thrust and with it portions of the clothing of the murdered boy.

The theory that the victim was murdered by Greek padrones is based on the fact that the boy is evidently a Greek and on the knowledge of the police that a regularly organized society of padrones of this race exists in Chicago. The organization makes a practice of luring boys from Greece to this country on promise of fine positions and then of holding them in slavery to toil for their masters for years.

Society Is Powerful.

So powerful is the society that all the Greek colony here live in perpetual fear of its vengeance. This has made it difficult for the authorities to convict. Threats of revenge against young Greeks who testified last fall during a crusade by United States District Attorney Sims against the padrones causes the belief that the present victim was one of the witnesses whose testimony helped convict and that he was thus ruthlessly murdered for exposing the system. District Attorney Sims said at noon today that the whole power of the legal machinery of the United States government would be brought to bear to solve this mystery and that no effort or money would be spared to bring to justice the person or persons guilty of the murder.

The identity of the murdered boy is still unknown. Photographs of the head are being made and these will be sent broadcast over the country in an effort to establish its identity and clear the mystery.

The Police Theory.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Working on the theory that a Greek boy, fifteen or sixteen years old, was offered up as a sacrifice to the vengeance of the padrone system, the whole Chicago police force is at work today in an effort to identify the dismembered body found in fragments yesterday in different parts of the Illinois and Michigan drainage canal.

The Greek letters "d" and "z" embroidered in red silk on a pillow slip and a boy's flannel undershirt found with the mutilated torso have furnished the police the most tangible clew they have. The federal authorities are also taking a hand in the case, believing the boy was one of Chicago's slaves imported recently and forced to work for wealth masters and then murdered because he revealed or threatened to reveal the secrets of the dealers in human chattels.

City-Wide Canvass.

A city-wide canvass, procuring descriptions of all missing boys, is being made today. Simultaneously a suspect whose name has not been revealed is held by the police. He is said to have been seen in the neighborhood of the spot where the boy's body was found, about the time the boy is supposed to have been slain.

The torso was found in the drainage canal under the Santa Fe bridge late yesterday afternoon, following the discovery earlier of two human legs a few blocks away. The torso had been ripped open in front and the heart torn out and slashed in two. The viscera had then been removed clearly. Into this cavity the severed left foot had been thrust, together with a black cap, a black stocking and a portion of an undershirt. A pair of boy's trousers had been wrapped about the body, and about this was a newspaper dated a week ago.

The horrible nature of the mutilations and the ruthless manner in which objects had been thrust into the yawning cavity in the body precludes the possibility that the body was one discarded by a medical college, according to Coroner's Physician Hunter.

A Floating Satchel.

A satchel floating nearby contained other articles of clothing, among them several collars, size fifteen, and cuffs. On one of the collars the detectives found the name of a Greek collar-maker, Xenophone P. Lambropulos, 158 Iolou Alovoi, Athens, Greece, and on the shirt the initials

A PISTOL DUEL WITH ROBBERS

Clarence Post Fights One Thursday Morning.

ROBBERS ENTER HIS STORE AT MARTIN

Post Sleeps Above and They Awaken Him.

They Flee, Firing as They Go—One of Them Is Shot Through the Head and It Is Believed That He Will Die—He Is Found Near Martin Weak from Loss of Blood and Suffering Greatly.

Genoa, O., Aug. 6.—Three robbers who broke into the general store of Clarence Post at Martin, early this morning, engaged in a pistol duel with the owner of the store. Post shot one of the men through the head and it is believed he is fatally injured.

The robbers were discovered by Post, who lives above his store, just after they had entered the building through a side window. The men fled, firing as they went.

At Clay Center, near Martin, the wounded robber was found, weak from loss of blood and suffering great pain. He gave his name as Frank Burns, and professed to have no regular residence.

Bloodhounds will be secured and placed on the trail of Burns' pals.

THE EXPEDITION IS WIPED OUT

Entire Danish Party Exploring Greenland Meets Death.

Copenhagen, Aug. 6.—News was received here today of the wiping out of the entire Danish expedition that left two years ago to explore the unknown territory of Greenland. The expedition was under the leadership of Mylius Erichsen.

Details of the tragic ending of the expedition have not been received. It is only known that the party met death while crossing an ice pack.

Captain Mylius and his party had carefully mapped out the unexplored regions of Greenland and while they were aware of the danger that confronted the expedition, they left Denmark in 1906 confident of returning with much valuable information concerning Greenland's icy fastnesses.

To Abandon Three-Cent Fares.

Cleveland, Aug. 6.—Three-cent fares and free transfers will probably be abandoned on Mayor Tom L. Johnson's municipally controlled three-cent line in the near future. It has not paid and isn't paying.

Firemen Overcome.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Five firemen were overcome by smoke and narrowly escaped death early today in a fire which destroyed a number of small stores and tenement buildings on the North Side.

OHIO SOLONS IN ANNUAL REUNION

They Are Gathering at Cedar Point.

TO DISCUSS MATTERS OF GRAVE IMPORT

Lobbyists Are First To Arrive on the Scene.

Members of Buckeye General Assembly Blow Themselves for Railroad Fare To Get In on Free Eats—The Festivities Open in the Evening with a Ball—The Program of the Reunion.

Cedar Point, O., Aug. 6.—The Ohio legislature holds its annual reunion at this point today, Friday and Saturday of this week. With the gathering of the clans and party leaders, matters of grave importance in state politics will be discussed and the inside work of the campaign arranged for and party legislative matters agreed upon.

It is noteworthy that the paid lobbyists of the big interests were the first to appear on the ground. Railroad and Standard Oil representatives are here. They are not paying much attention to the outgoing members of the legislature, the men who have served two terms. The lobbyist is devoting much of his time cultivating the acquaintance of the members-to-be. A number of candidates for the state senate and house are here. The inducements offered of free feeds have led them to give up good money for railroad fare to get in on "the eats." The festivities will open tonight with the legislative ball. Following the ball there will be a fireworks display. Friday there will be a trolley ride to the Soldiers' home, a boat ride in the afternoon and a banquet at night. The program committee has arranged to close the reunion Saturday by giving the legislature a bath in Lake Erie.

Clam Noisy by Comparison.

A clam is a noisy proposition compared with the members of the legislature, who are here attending the reunion of the Seventy-Seventh session of the United States senatorship. Those members now on the ground are like a company of privates awaiting the command of the officers. The commanding officers of the organization will not be here until tonight. Arthur I. Vorys, Governor Harris and other state officials are expected tomorrow. Henry Williams, chairman of the Republican state committee, will arrive tonight. Speaker Eagleson headed a delegation that arrived on the Eastland at noon. Granville Mooney of Ashtabula county, is circulating and lining up votes for his candidate as speaker. Dr. James O. Hawkins, of Jackson county, who has been mentioned as a candidate for speaker, denied the allegation today. Ed Doty of Cleveland and Malcolm Jennings, house and senate clerks, joined the reunionists today. Others who arrived were M. A. Karshner, secretary of the state central committee; W. H. Phipps, secretary of the state executive committee; Mayor Bond, of Columbus; Senator Lawler and Senator Frank Patterson of Ashland county.

Members of the "third house" who greeted the legislators were Charles Edson of Van Wert, who looks after the Schoepf interurban interests; Joe Moses, tax agent for the Big Four; Henry Atthorp, Standard Oil; Alonzo Shettler, who is said to represent the breweries; Ed Porter, of the American book trust, and Doc Norton, of the Baltimore & Ohio.

BRYAN AND THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET

Will Be Endorsed by the American Federation of Labor.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—A meeting of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor will be held within the next two weeks, probably in Chicago, for the purpose of endorsing William J. Bryan and the Democratic ticket. The announcement was made by John B. Lennon, treasurer of the national labor organization, who is here on federation business.

Police Guard Home.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Police are today guarding the residence of James Pease, former sheriff. Another attempt to dynamite the home of Pease in Lakeview is feared. Mrs. Pease has observed strangers in the neighborhood and she became alarmed.

BIG CAMP MEETING AT THE FAIRGROUND

Interest Increasing with Services of Each Day.

SOME ABLE ADDRESSES MADE BY MINISTERS

Rev. E. S. Dunham Talks of the Divine Love—Dr. Joseph Smith Speaks of "Prayer for the Gift of the Holy Spirit"—Some Notes of Meetings Held Wednesday.

The interest has not abated nor has the attendance decreased since the opening of the first annual camp-meeting of the Methodist Episcopal congregations at the fairground. Wednesday will go down as a most fruitful one in the series of meeting. The day opened with the usual prayer service at 5:30 a. m., conducted by Rev. C. E. Rowley, pastor of the Wesley M. E. church. From 8 to 9 o'clock Dr. Joseph Smith held the "School of the Prophets."

Rev. E. S. Dunham preached at 10:30 o'clock, taking his text from Corinthians 14:1. Among other things he declared that one can cultivate divine love just as one can cultivate the natural affection. Continuing, he said:

"The greatest blunder is when we, in ignorance, think we are doing God's service when the fact is, God is putting everything in our way to prevent us from doing it. We are so headstrong. O! what a pity when any of us lose the genius of the gospel and forget the trend."

The speaker then explained how the things mentioned in the thirteenth chapter of his text were all void without the perfect love of God in the heart. Christ taught that it is better to lose some things than to have a fuss, he said. "God has only one credential for the preacher, the teacher or the christian," he added. "It is love, love. When you lose that, you have lost your credential."

At 2:30 p. m., Rev. Mr. Dunham again preached to large and appreciative audience. His text was taken from Luke 11:13. He said in part: "It is one of the hardest things in the world to get, even God's people, to take the 'gifts of God' as a donation. You can not buy it; you can not earn it; you can not grow into it. Yet God is willing to give it to you. When sinners realize their lost, destitute condition, then they meet Jesus. The richest man and the pauper in the poorhouse must both come to this same place before they can meet Jesus. There is no comfort in life, only as you draw it from God through the atoning blood. Jesus will take you just as you are. No use to struggle. The Holy Spirit is a gift—a divine bestowment. Do not depend on your works, but lay hold of the atonement.

"The Holy Spirit is your comfort. He came for your entire sanctification. When you want Jesus worse than anything on earth, He will come and abide with you."

In the evening Dr. J. Smith preached to a very large audience on "Prayer for the Gift of the Holy Spirit," from Luke 11:13. He said:

"An impenitive reason for seeking the Holy Ghost is, that all about us are many who will not be reached by the gospel unless you are full of the Holy Spirit. The climax of this prayer in this chapter is the assurance of the gift of the Holy Ghost. There comes a time in christian experience, when about the only thing we pray for is the Holy Spirit.

"If you, my unconverted child, would know the boundary of the christian life, it is the new birth."

Here the speaker made a plea for the wandering sinner to come to the Heavenly Father. Continuing he said that real conversion puts a man out of the sinning business. "The truth is men are justified before they are sanctified," he asserted. "We have found that by receiving the 'gift of the Holy Spirit' we have found the cure for indwelling sin. He will take away your bent to sinning."

The preacher spoke at length upon the importance of asking right, and the necessity of the church having something to set before those who are spiritually hungry. At the close many persons sought pardon and full salvation.

SANTO DOMINGO INTERVENTION

It Proves Beneficial to the Islanders.

UNCLE SAM IS A GOOD STEWARD

Saves the Black Republic an Even Million.

That Is the Amount Ordinarily Appropriated for Putting Down Revolts—Since Uncle Sam Has Been in Charge of Financial Affairs, There Have Been No Revolts—Improvements Being Made.

Washington, Aug. 3.—Revolutions are of such frequent occurrence in practically all of the republics of the West Indies and Central America that the annual appropriation bills, or "budgets" as they are called, make provision for their suppression under the head of "general extraordinary expenses."

A remarkable testimony to the effectiveness of the intervention of the United States in the fiscal affairs of Santo Domingo is contained in a report made public today from W. E. Pulliam, the general receiver of Dominican customs. He calls attention to the fact that in the budget of that country for 1904-1905, the period immediately preceding the American receivership, out of a total estimated income of $2,500,000, forty per cent. of it was designated for these "general extraordinary expenses," while this year the sum set aside for this purpose is only $38,235. The difference between this and a million dollars leave a wide revenue in the receipts of a small republic for international improvements.

A Wonderfu' Change.

"After deducting $1,200,000 to be paid in monthly installments of $100,000 for interest account and amortization of the new Dominican bond issue, the remainder, available this year for government expenditures," says the report, "will exceed the entire federal income of but four years ago

"Among the works of international improvement for which appropriations are made in this year's "budget" is the dredging of a channel through the bar at the mouth of the Ozama river, upon the west bank of which the capital of the republic is situated. It was in this river that Columbus anchored his caravels more than a hundred years before Hudson sighted Manhattan."

Two wireless telegraph stations, with the latest approved appliances are now in course of construction, $19,200 having been made available

A new department of agriculture and immigration has been created. The sum of $40,000 was appropriated for the encouragement of immigration and it is hoped to induce to colonize by hardy laborers from northern Spain.

The aggregate federal income for the fiscal year is estimated at $3,948,300, the largest in the history of the republic.

HIGH TEMPERATURE AND LOW HUMIDITY

Marion People Pass a Very Warm Day Monday.

At noon, Monday, the temperature, according to the government thermometer of Dr. E H Raffensperger, was 96½, with a relative humidity of less than five per cent.

"If it were not for the low humidity it would be so hot that most of us could not bear it," said the official weatherman. "For instance, if the humidity were seventy or eighty per cent. instead of five per cent, with a temperature of 96½ degrees, it would be something fearful. As it is, it is hot enough."

Selfishness is the suicide of happiness.

MERELY TO HELP THE SITUATION

Is Harriman's Explanation of Wabash Deal.

SIMPLY EXTENDING A HELPING HAND

Receiverships Are Not Beneficial to Rail Properties.

Harriman Says He Hasn't Decided What Moves Will Be Made in the Wabash, but That No Railroad Is To Be Abandoned Over Night—To Rusticate on Ranch Is the Intention of Harriman.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—E. H. Harriman, who recently acquired the Pittsburg terminal, blocking George J. Gould's outlook to the Atlantic, and gained control of a number of other properties, removing all question as to his absolute supremacy in the railroad world, is today conferring with associates here. He arrived on a special train last night.

Accompanying the magnate are his family and private secretary. Orders have been issued to all officials of the Harriman and Gould lines to give no information concerning the special. Harriman is on this way to his ranch in Oregon where he will rusticate. He will leave Chicago tonight.

"I didn't do these things to make money, but merely to help the situation," explained the wizard regarding his motives in entering into deals by which he has just saved the Gould roads, and a few months ago the Erie from receivership proceedings. Continuing, Harriman said:

Lends Hand in Crisis.

"As far as my participation was concerned, it was that of any one who would lend a hand in the time of crisis. It would have been very unfortunate if a number of railroads had been forced to go into the hands of receivers."

Asked what would be the result of his transactions with Gould, if the Erie would gain an entrance into Pittsburg what would be done with Gould's eastern seaboard plans and the Western Pacic, the railroad king replied:

"I don't know. I really haven't thought of these things. There is not going to be an abandoning of railroads or combinations of railroads over night."

Following is a list of some of the railroads acquired by Harriman to help his fellow men and aid in making America the greatest of countries:

Some Harriman Roads.

Union Pacific, capital $295,059,200, bonds $201,065,500, mileage 5,910.

Southern Pacific, capital $273,031,700, bonds $383,305,551, mileage 9,695.

Central Pacific, capital $80,000,000, bonds $136,305,000, mileage 2,124.

Pacific Mail, capital $20,000,000.

Oregon Short Line, capital $27,450,100, bonds, $82,491,000, mileage 1,462.

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, capital $132,998,500, bonds $121,849,500, mileage 7,045.

Pacific Coast, capital $12,526,100, bonds $5,000,000.

Illinois Central, capital $123,552,000, bonds $146,053,275, mileage 4,459.

Chicago & Alton, capital $38,049,800, bonds $78,036,563, mileage 970.

Baltimore & Ohio, capital $212,175,800, bonds $246,849,430, mileage 4,485.

Delaware & Hudson, capital $42,200,500, bonds $32,077,000, mileage 844

Erie railroad, capital $196,892,400 bonds $209,633,900, mileage 2,334.

Morgan's Louisiana & Texas, capital $15 000,000, bonds $6,494,000, mileage 350

Central Railroad of Georgia, capital $5,000,000, bonds $40,396,000, mileage 1,913.

The following were acquired last week:

W & L E, capital $36,980,400, bonds $230,050,000, mileage 442.

Wabash, Poughkeepsie & Terre Haute, capital $10,000,000, bonds $49 000, mileage 60.

Western Maryland, capital $15,685,400, bonds $58,718,875, mileage 543.

The following are controlled through Gould alliance

Wabash railroad, capital $90,749,200, bonds $115,585,000, mileage 2,514.

Just an Intimation.

President Roosevelt's prosecution of railroads for rebating was intimated by Harriman as the reason for the bankruptcy and receiverships in the railroad world. The "wizard" was asked before he conferred with officials of his railroad system, why it was that, after five years of great prosperity, the railroads are in bad straits, many of them in the hands of receivers, and others near receivership proceedings.

"Simply because 'they' are after them," Harriman replied. He did not explain whom he meant by "they," but it was evident that he referred to the government prosecution of various railroads.

Wall Street Nervous.

New York, Aug 3.—E. H. Harriman's statement in Chicago last night that as he grows older, he is beginning to think more of his fellow-man, has all Wall street nervous today If the things he has done to his business enemies in the past have been executed with only a passing thought old stagers in the street are wondering what the result will be now that "the little wizard" has determined to apply his mind to it.

Incidentally, the fact is noted that Harriman is to have a conference with the Chicago subway financiers today and as he is reputed to be a "practical man," they are wondering if today's interview is in the nature of a little gift for the tail of some Chicago bird of finance This is the paragraph of the interview which is making Wall street nervous:

"As I grow older, I am beginning to think more of my fellow man. I want to see this country the greatest on earth I intend to help made it such."

Milk Diet For Austrian Soldiers.

Some interesting experiments in the direction of vegetarianism in regard to soldiers' diet are being made by the Austrian military authorities. The various commissariat departments have received orders to test the value of milk and milk products, especially cheese, in the daily dietary of the troops. Skimmilk, which is usually rather despised, is also to be taken into account It is suggested that recruits would form a very good subject for experiment and that they might be given smaller rations of meat, with increased allowances of vegetables and pastry and puddings composed of milk and cereals The war office is especially anxious to ascertain how such a reformed scale of diet would meet the requirements of the troops in maneuvers and field exercises. It is understood that the private soldiers are by no means enthusiastic about the new dietary.

THE HOTTEST DAY IN CITY IN MANY YEARS

The Thermometer Reaches Ninety-Nine Degrees, Monday.

HUMIDITY DOWN TO ABOUT ONE PER CENT.

Thermometer Reaches Ninety-One Degrees Tuesday, but an Approaching Rain Storm Causes the Temperature To Fall—Heat Causes Much Suffering to Children.

The hottest day in Marion for several years was Monday, when the maximum temperature as shown by the government thermometer of Dr E. H. Raffensperger was ninety-nine degrees. At noon, Monday, the temperature was 96½ degrees, with a humidity of five per cent. In the afternoon the temperature increased, while the relative humidity decreased to about one per cent.

With the sun's rise, Tuesday, many predicted that it would be hotter than Monday. At noon, Tuesday, Dr Raffensperger's thermometer showed that mercury had climbed to ninety-one. Lowering clouds that threatened rain caused the temperature to fall, however.

Dr. Raffensperger states that the temperature is usually higher here than in the cities. Many people have asked him why Monday, for instance, the highest temperature in Columbus was ninety-five degrees, four degrees lower than it was here Dr. Raffensperger explains this difference by reason of the fact that in the city the government thermometer is placed in the regular government shelter-house, but near the ground

The intense heat has caused great suffering among the infants of the city, physicians reporting many cases of cholera infantum and other diseases among children during hot weather.

INFANT DIES OF CHOLERA INFANTUM

Little Daughter of Mr. Arthur Abbott.

Edna May, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs Arthur Abbott, residing on north Main street, died of cholera infantum, Sunday night. The child's mother died last May as a result of complications due to the babe's birth.

The funeral service was held at the Abbott home, Tuesday morning at 9 30 o'clock, Rev. E. G. Mapes officiating.

Advertising Fair.

M F Broderick, secretary of the Union County Fair association, and F. OFFICERS SEARCHING FOR MISSING WOMAN

The Disappearance of Mrs. James McIlwaine.

HUSBAND REFUSES TO TALK OF MATTER

McIlwaine Takes His Wife Away from Home and Is Gone a Week. He Finally Returns, but Will Give No Information That Is Regarded Satisfactory.

All of Hardin county has been interested in the strange disappearance of Mrs. James McIlwaine, aged fifty-three, from her home near Roundhead a week ago. A posse and the officers of Kenton and surrounding places have been making a search for the woman and her husband. While a party in automobiles under the instructions of Sheriff Scott were searching the neighborhood for James McIlwaine, Tuesday, he returned to his farm He refused to tell what had become of his wife, but stated that she was safe

A thorough search of the surrounding country is being made. Two sons, Dennis, of Roundhead, and Delavin, of this city, are assisting in the search for their mother. Neither the officers nor the sons have been able to learn from McIlwaine where he and his wife spent the week, or where she now is. Sheriff Scott sent in a call for more deputies and the search is being continued

Cleveland's Small Estate.

New York business men who are believed to have had reliable information are authority for the statement that the value of the late President Cleveland's estate will not be more than $200,000 or $250,000, instead of the millions that some agitators used to insist he had made out of the presidential office. It is pointed out that most of the employment that he had secured since his retirement from public life was in New York and that he would have preferred a New York residence. He made no secret, however, that he did not have the $20,000 a year income which would have been necessary to maintain himself and family in New York City in the style that would have been expected of them. It was as much to economize in the expenses of his establishment as to secure cultivated society that he settled in Princeton.

The man was undoubtedly grossly slandered by Poperatic prints after and during his last term as president. He was the victim of the most outrageous inuendo, and one would have supposed that he was on the regular salary list of some of the big firms of Wall street The present Democratic candidate for president, who has had a lot to say about Mr. Cleveland, and most of it derogatory, is probably worth as much today as Mr. Cleveland ever was, and, both earned their money in precisely the same way—that is, by honest and honorable industry. There is no question that if Mr. Cleveland, after his return to private life, has lent his name to some of the big promotions which have of recent years abounded in Wall street, he could have made millions of dollars. It is to his lasting credit that he sturdily declined thus to degrade the traditions of the great office which had once belonged to him.—Pittsburg Press.

THE ABDICATION OF ABDUL HAMID

Nothing Less Will Satisfy the Young Turks.

THEY ARE ARROGANT OVER THEIR SUCCESS

And Making Further Demands on the Throne.

Political Leaders Express the Fear That Another Uprising Will Be Inaugurated and the Empire Thrown into a War—The Personnel of the New Turkish Ministry Is Formally Announced Monday.

Constantinople, Aug. 3 —Nothing but the abdication of the throne by Sultan Abdul Hamid will satisfy the members of the young Turkey party, whose arrogance over the success that has attended their fight for greater Turkish freedom threatens to react in the defeat of the inaugurated reforms.

The military organization of the young Turks in Macedonia and Asia Minor, the strength of which forced the sultan to grant the constitution, has been kept intact. Backed by it, the Macedonian reformers are demanding still other concessions from the sultan and in the event of his refusal, political leaders expressed the fear today that another uprising will be inaugurated and the empire thrown into a war.

In an effort to pacify the Macedonians, the sultan has sent Kouthouk to Macedonia to explain the new constitution. Everything possible will be done to allay the fear in this part of the empire, as it is recognized that the support of the young Turks is necessary to the fulfillment of the promised reforms.

The personnel of the new Turkish ministry was formally announced today. It is as follows: The Sheik Ul Islma, Jemall Edind Effendo, Abdurraham, minister with a portfolio; Kiamil Pasha, minister without a portfolio; Hashan Hehmi Pasha, minister of justice; Turhan Pasha, president of the council, Hadji Akif, minister of the interior; Naoum Pasha, minister of public works; Zia Pasha, minister of commerce; Tewfik Pasha, minister of agriculture; Mehmed Ali Pasha, minister of pious foundations, Rahgib Bey, minister of finance

Roosevelt to Sultan.

Washington, Aug. 3 —President Roosevelt has directed the state department to instruct Ambassador Leishman, at Constantinople, to convey to the sultan of Turkey his personal congratulations and gratification upon the reestablishment of a constitutional form of government in his empire. England and Germany had already sent similar evidences of their appreciation of the importance of the change in the Turkish regime and the United States is the third power to extend the glad hand.

In announcing the sending of the message, the state department issued the following:

"Ambassador Leishman has been authorized to express to the sultan of Turkey the sympathetic interest with which the confirmation of representative government in the Turkish dominion has been observed by the president and to express the cordial hope that the enchantment of the permanent peace and prosperity of the Ottoman nation will be aided by this important step"

An Alliance Predicted.

Constantinople, Aug. 3.—An immediate alliance between Turkey and Greece is foreshadowed as a result of a meeting here today between Prince Andria, representing Greece, Sultan Abdul Hamid and Grand Vizier Said Pasha. Andria arrived today and went at once into a conference with the Turkish ruler and his chief advisers.

While nothing has been given out regarding the nature of the conference, from a high authority it is stated that the question of an alliance was discussed and favorably considered.

Greece has been ready for an alliance with Turkey whenever the reign of absolutism ended. The recent granting of a constitution by the sultan and the other forms inaugurated by him opened the way for today's conference.

PLOT AGAINST KING ALFONSO

Discovered and Foiled by Activity of Police.

ANARCHY PROBLEM IS A SERIOUS ONE

A Number of Bomb Outrages Recently.

Some Forty Arrests Are Made, Many of Those Arrested Being Women. It Is in Madrid, However, Supposedly Free from Anarchistic Movement, That the Plot Against the King Is Hatched.

Madrid, Aug. 3.—The Spanish capital was startled today by a well-authenticated rumor that a full-fledged plot against the life of King Alfonso had recently been discovered and foiled by the activity of the secret police. The authorities refused to give out any of the details fearing to inflame the public mind, but it is known that several of the terrorist leaders involved in the plot are under arrest.

The revival of anarchy throughout the empire is the most serious problem confronting the government officials. Within the last few days there have been a number of bomb outrages, news of which has just leaked out.

Some forty arrests have been made, many women being included. Magazines of explosives have been seized in Tremp, near Lerida, and at Segur, in the same province. Most of the conspirators have their headquarters in Barcelona, the hotbed of the Spanish anarchists.

It was in Madrid, however, supposed to be comparatively free from the anarchastic movement, that the plot gainst Alfonso was hatched. Both the palace guard and the personal escort of the king have been increased.

Bound To Have Good Times.

No former period of business reaction in the United States was marked by such extreme unwillingness as is now manifested to rest passive under the burdens and pains of slack trade and industrial depression. There is a general and strongly-marked determination that the times shall be mended, and that speedily.

The difference is similar to that which is often noted in cases of illness. One patient will aid his physician greatly by his own energy of mind, his own will to get well. Another, no worse afflicted physically, makes little resistance to disease. He may lack natural courage and determination, or he may be weighed down by external conditions. He may not care much to live. In either case his doctor has a hard task, for the non-resisting sufferer yields with discouraging and dangerous readiness to the onslaught of the malady which besets him.

Now the country is in the fighting mood, as far as the question of good times is concerned. It is unwilling to admit that recovery from all of the ills born of the panic, or of the conditions which brought about the crisis of last fall, can be long delayed. The American people believe that there is no sound reason why dull trade and industrial depression should trouble them much longer, and they are not at all willing to endure the burdens which seem so needless.

Beyond doubt this state of mind, speaking of the country as if it were an individual, will help greatly to bring about the desired result. It practically insures a much quicker and better recovery from all adverse conditions than could be hoped for or realized if the temper of the nation were less sanguine and less restive under the discomforts and losses of dull times. That is one of the most significant facts bearing upon the business outlook and the future of the country, near and more remote. —Cleveland Leader.

Mistress of the White House

? Will Her Name Be Helen or Mary ?

Character Study of Mrs. Bryan and Mrs. Taft, Wives of the Presidential Nominees—Both College Graduates and True Helpmeets.

By ROBERTUS LOVE

It is a sure shot that the next mistress of the White House will have a husband whose first name is William Will the first name of the gracious lady herself be Mary or Helen?

That is the question

Voters of the nation must decide this momentous matter in November It is a truly momentous question to Mary Baird Bryan and Helen Herron Taft though probably not one voter in a million will take this matter into consideration when he casts his ballot Perhaps in Colorado Wyoming Utah and Idaho, where the women vote, some ballots will be cast for Mrs Bryan and Mrs Taft though ostensibly they will be for Mr Bryan and Mr Taft. So far as the rest of the country is concerned mere man will be ungallantly unconscious of the fact that he is voting also for a candidate for first ladyship

But it really doesn't matter which woman wins except to the respective candidates and their friends The country will be safe and sound socially with either Mrs Bryan or Mrs Taft in the executive mansion Each woman is eminently fitted for this high dignity Without casting the slightest reflection upon any former White House lady or upon any defeated candidate for that distinction, it may be said that the opposing candidates for the first ladyship this year seem to be by personal attributes and general experience more admirably adapted to the duties of the unofficial office than were any pair of their predecessors in the race If education makes for mental ability and travel makes for culture then both Mrs Taft and Mrs Bryan are of the highest availability and culture Both are college graduates and both have been globe trotters for years They have seen the world and the fullness thereof Moreover both are good old fashioned mothers and home bodies, and neither is a 'new woman in the popular meaning

MRS. WILLIAM H TAFT MRS WILLIAM J BRYAN.

THE WHITE HOUSE

Mrs Bryan is a few years older than Mrs Taft, who until the accession of Secretary Garfield was the youngest woman in the circle of cabinet officers' wives Perry, Ill, is the birthplace of Mrs Bryan Her father was John Baird who died in 1905 at the age of eighty two Mary Elizabeth Baird grew up in the wholesome atmosphere of a prairie town home in the middle west There are hundreds of towns very much like Perry but no other one that has won the distinction of having a native daughter become the wife and comrade of a man thrice nominated for the presidency of the United States On her mother's side Mrs Bryan is of English descent Her father was Scotch Irish Mary Elizabeth attended the public schools in Perry until she was ready for what the average girl considers the finishing school She was sent to the celebrated old Monticello seminary at Godfrey, Ill for one year and then to the Presbyterian academy at Jacksonville Here she passed two years being graduated with the class of 1881

A College Romance.

Miss Baird entered the Jacksonville school as a junior In the same town and the same year William Jennings Bryan was a junior at Illinois college It was a college romance There was an intellectual affinity between them For two years they cultivated mutual acquaintance Three years after their graduation there was a quiet wedding at Perry the date being Oct 1 1884 Mr Bryan had completed his law course and was beginning the practice of his profession in Jacksonville Like the average young lawyer he was poor but he was intensely ambitious Mrs Bryan shared his ambitions and determined to be a true helpmeet To that end she began the study of law

Three years later the Bryans removed to Lincoln Neb and in 1888 Mrs Bryan was admitted to practice in all the courts of the state

But she never practiced law. There was a baby in the household Ruth, now Mrs Leavitt with two little ones of her own Mrs Bryan believed that the place of a wife and mother was in the home Her knowledge of law enabled her to assist her husband in his practice without neglecting household duties

Lightning Typewriter Artist.

In the earlier days Mr Bryan's means were not sufficient to permit the employment of a secretary Mrs Bryan served willingly and ably in that capacity Though there is now at the Bryan home an official stenographer Mrs Bryan still is the real private secretary of the great commoner There are women it is hinted who dictate to their husbands Mr Bryan dictates to his wife, who is an expert stenographer and a lightning typewriter artist For many years Mrs Bryan has taken down and typewritten her husband's personal correspondence and his speeches and editorials Mr Bryan is a rapid talker It was necessary for his secretary to know some system of shorthand Mrs Bryan examined the Pitman and other popular systems, but found none suitable Then she proved what a bright woman in earnest can do by inventing a shorthand system of her own By this system she can catch her husband's dictation word for word It is said that there is only one other stenographer who has been able to do that

Mrs Taft also is a true helpmeet to her husband She says that she is old fashioned enough to believe that woman is the complement of man and that what is most feminine about her is most attractive to man and therefore of the greatest utility to the world Nevertheless Mrs Taft is a woman suffragist "I have always believed that women should vote she said recently 'I favor bestowing upon them every civic right but I should like to put in a prohibitory clause debarring them from running for office I think the natural scheme would be disjointed and the end and aim of the home destroyed

A World Traveler.

Like Mrs Bryan Mrs Taft is her husband's intellectual comrade When ever Mr Taft takes up the study of some problem of statecraft though it may be as dry as dust Mrs Taft proceeds to inform herself upon the same topic Thus she is enabled to keep up with her husband in all his interests She has traveled around the world with him and has absorbed valuable information in every country visited

The Taft love affair was not a college romance Both Mr and Mrs Taft were born in Cincinnati Their families were neighbors and friends Mrs Taft says she cannot remember a time when she did not know Will The children of the two families visited back and forth frequently Mrs Taft was Helen Herron, daughter of John W Herron who used to be a law partner of Rutherford B Hayes president of the United States from 1877 to 1881 It was while young Taft was in Yale that the interesting understanding between the young couple came to a point The Cincinnati Commercial Gazette of June 20 1886 tells of a quiet home wedding at the Herron domicile the evening of the 19th and gives this bit of description of the bride's costume which should be read with interest by the women of today

'The bride wore a charming gown of white silk with embroidered tablier, her veil caught up by sprays of white lilacs, and she carried a bouquet of sweet peas and lilies of the valley'

There were no bridesmaids and no best man Only the families of the bride and groom and a few intimate friends were present Truly a democratic wedding that! The Tafts sailed for Europe on the City of Berlin and passed their honeymoon in England

Brilliant Musician.

After her college course Mrs Taft found that she had developed a lifelong passion for music She continued to cultivate her musical abilities For seven years she was president of the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra She believes that the government should do something toward the encouragement of music and the other aesthetic arts In all the busy years of her husband's official career with its frequent journeys from place to place Mrs Taft has 'kept up her music" so to speak She plays brilliantly and sings well

If Mrs Bryan has any special study it is German She has been a diligent student of the German tongue and is quite proficient in the language Mrs Taft also has linguistic tastes While residing in the Philippines for four years she studied Spanish until she could talk almost like a native—not exactly like a native but better for she learned the real Spanish In her trip around the world Mrs Taft conversed with the representatives of several nations in their own tongues thereby causing her husband a pang of envy because he was not so good a linguist

Both candidates' wives are democratic in their tastes and in their manner Both are noted for their remarkable memory of names and faces thus proving that they are well qualified to be politicians on their own hook Just here occurs to me a conversation which I overheard the other day in a public place A man from Cincinnati was talking politics to a party of friends Mr Bryan was the chief topic The Cincinnati man remarked that Mrs Bryan is 'good at remembering folks"

'Why' he said, 'I met Mrs Bryan twelve years ago when she was with her husband on one of his tours during his first campaign There was an impromptu reception to the candidate at Akron O Most of us were introduced to Mrs Bryan too The candidate's wife smilingly said that she hoped I'd vote for her husband She also said she hoped she'd meet me again"

'Of course she'd say that" said a lady in the party 'That's politeness"

'Also politics' continued the Cincinnati man 'But hear the sequel Six weeks later I happened to be in Columbus when the Bryan train was there Local Democrats had arranged a reception I fell in line with hundreds of others and passed to shake hands with the candidate again Mrs Bryan spied me—would you believe it?—and called me over to her She called me by name said she was glad to see me again reminded me that we had met at Akron and said she hoped we'd meet again—and she also hoped I'd not forget to vote for Mr Bryan Now, what you do think of that?'

At her home Mrs Bryan is as busy as her husband Until his recent nomination for the presidency she took dictation from him every morning and typewrote his correspondence That was the daily programme after breakfast and an early breakfast at that Later in the day Mrs Bryan had the pleasure of dictating her own correspondence to her own secretary Since the Bryan name became so prominent she receives all sorts of letters from all sorts of people all of which she answers except those which bear the unmistakable imprint of crankism

Tasteful but Quiet Dressers.

Both Mrs Taft and Mrs Bryan dress tastefully but quietly On a recent trip abroad Mrs Taft made a world's record in quick shopping She was in Paris three hours During that time she laid in a large supply of new gowns, bonnets and other articles of apparel These are for important functions When at home Mrs Taft dresses democratically Mrs Bryan at her home wears the simplest apparel It is said that sometimes when old friends call and the young negro door attendant takes their cards to the library where she is busy at her typewriter she receives them without waiting to take off the apron which she wears when seated at the machine But when Mrs Bryan attends the social functions of Lincoln she is attired in gowns which are said to surpass all others in Lincoln for quality and style Some of her gowns are made abroad others by dressmakers in her own neighborhood

Mrs Taft is fond of outdoor sports Her favorite exercise is rowing When she spent a summer at Oxford, England not long ago she rowed several miles daily on one of the streams She is also a vigorous walker Rain does not deter her She dons a waterproof cloak and takes her constitutional right out in the downpour

Mrs Bryan's tastes incline to serious subjects in literature Her favorite novelist is Victor Hugo

Mrs Taft keeps pace with the best current literature and enjoys some of the old classics One of her favorite authors is George Eliot Like her husband she has a rich sense of humor This enhances her vivacity

The most cursory review of the lives of the two women who are rivals for the first ladyship of the land is sufficient to show that no matter how the election goes there will be in the White House for the next four years a woman perfectly capable of making a fine impression upon domestic and foreign visitors Whether she be Mrs Bryan or Mrs Taft she will represent to all the world the best thing there is in all the world—namely, the cultivated unspoiled high minded American woman, wife and mother

The greatness of any man is present depends on the length of his view of happiness

PROFESSION OF FARMING.

Agriculture has been neglected as a prosession, because of the isolation of the farmer forced to low priced land at a distance from those with whom he must trade; the bright boys will not stay for such a life as that, so they go to the cities, leaving stagnation behind them. The future of farming lies with our boys. Whether it shall become the chosen calling of specially trained young men with all the added dignity that such training could bring to it, or remain what it has hitherto been, concerns them even more than us.—Bolton Hall.

WHEN GIANTS FALL.

By William T. Ellis.

The International Sunday-School Lesson for August 9 Is, "David and Goliath." I Sam. 17:1—18:5.

This is a bad year for giants. In fact it looks as if the mortality among these sons of Anak would break records during the first generation of the twentieth century. Huge, vaunting, and seemingly invulnerable evils of heroic size and ancient lineage have gone tumbling before the onslaught of despised adversaries. Even the giant of monopolistic wealth seems toppling to his knees. The vested rights of mighty wrongs have been swept away with annoying rapidity. The simple-minded David of moral reform has borne the head of more than one Goliath of corruption to the inspection of sovereign right

This old and deathless tale of the duel between the giant Philistine and the shepherd boy from Bethlehem has become one of the world's common figures of speech, to typify the conflict between wrongs that seem all-powerful, and justice that seems feeble. While the story is a true one, and its characters real personages, and so to be studied, yet the contest serves its best present-day purpose in illustrating the principles which to an especial degree need emphasis at the present time.

The Battle of Champions.

The background of the incident is simple and dramatic. The Philistines had grown increasingly bold in their raids upon Israel. The madness that was settling over the latter's monarch had made the nation's nerve weak. The two armies had encamped on the steep hillsides of a valley, in plain sight of each other. The attacked party would have such an advantage, because of the climb up the slope, that the issue was not joined through several weeks. The short-range weapons of the time required fighting at close quarters.

In this state of affairs the Philistines proposed a battle by champions a procedure common in ancient warfare, and not unknown down to comparatively modern times. Their representative was a giant, about nine feet tall, and fully clad in the habiliment of an expert warrior. For forty days in succession this Goliath came down into the valley, taunting the Israelites to send forth a warrior to do battle with him. The sun flashing from his brilliant armor, and from the head of his mighty spear, added weight to his boastings, and helped increase the terror of the Israelites, who had no man fit to face the champion. Saul once would have dared the trial; but his royal spirit had been broken. Even courageous Jonathan seems not to have proffered himself.

All unnoticed, there came into the Israelite camp, with the springing gait of the mountaineer, a country youth bearing on his back a load of proisions. Had any one chanced to observe the young man he would have remarked his unusual comeliness, his animated eye, and his fresh interest in the military life about him But to the soldiers he was only one more messenger from back-country, bringing supplies to his kindred. So it was. The youngest son of old Jesse David, had been called from the care of the sheep to bear his father's solicitous inquiries, and his gifts of love, to the three eldest sons, who were enlisted in Saul's army. Nobody paid any particular attention to David, except his big brother who welcomed him only for the gifts he brought; they seem to have been as churlish toward their young brother as has been the way of many older sons since. Neither they, nor anybody else, realized that the greatest event of that encampment was the entrance into it of that boy; if cities could but know when the real heroes enter their gates in the persons of ignored and, often, ill-treated youths!

A Big Brother's Scorn.

The shock which comes to many a home-nurtured lad, as he goes out into the world and finds wickedness thriving in boastfulness, came to David when he chanced to witness Goliath's daily challenge, with its piled-up insults to the God of the Hebrews. There were plenty of soldiers, eager to be the tellers of news, who related to David the story of Isreal's humiliation, at the lips of Goliath, and of her vain hope for a champion. While the giant's heavy tones echoed across the valley, the braggarts of the Hebrew army were taunted and dared by their fellows; others plainly showed their terror

David was shocked The scene penetrated to the depths of his spirit. To him it was fundamentally a matter of religion These jibes and jeers of the enemy were an unendurable insult to the faith that had become very sacred to him, in his lonely meditations on the Bethlehem hillside. So he could not restrain his wonder and hot indignation that an "uncircumcised Philistine," should thus "defy the armies of the living God" What he felt so deeply the youth, in youthful indiscretion, could not help speaking out openly.

Big brother Eliab did not like this. Possibly his own pusillanimity made him sensitive. At home he had been the hero and the brave man; therefore he did not relish the idea of having his small brother behold him skulking to the rear when champions were called for. So he rebuked the presumptuous stripling roundly, reminding him that his place was with the sheep. Bullied by Goliath, big Eliab, "took it out" in bullying David.

Standing Before the King.

The young shepherd had no intention of being sent home in disgrace. From his first knowledge of Goliath he had doubtless been animated with the desire to have a try at him. Stout hearts never stop to measure inches. David had that intensely practical mind which no sooner sees a wrong than it attempts to right it. Although he had a youth's body, he possessed a hero's heart.

"His strength was as the strength of ten,
Because his heart was pure."

The genius for transforming his purposes into actualities belonged to David; he knew the art of linking up his good intentions to good deeds. He fully realized that his outspoken scorn of the Philistine, and apparent readiness to accept the gage of battle, would be carried to the king's ears Would that all champions of right had a measure of David's common sense.

Ere long the ruddy youth stood unabashed in the king's presence. Questioned, he related how he had bearded both lion and bear, when they threatened his flocks. His simple creed held no place for fear: "Jehovah delivered me." Saul saw that this youth was of hero mould. When a man sincerely talks as a partner of God, he is one to flee from or to join, according as one's own purposes are false or true. The great victories of life, through all the yesterdays of history, and in this present today, are won by high-hearted faith in the sure triumph of right. Napoleon might sneer about God's being on the side of the heaviest battalions, but Napoleon died defeated and in prison and disgrace. The sense of being a worker together with God is the first essential qualification for success.

Saul, eager to grasp any prospect of hope, was enamored of the dauntless David. He at once equipped him with his own royal armor; but the shepherd lad floundered helplessly in it. Each must fight his own foes in his own way. It has ever been the mistake of zealots to look upon their own particular reform and their own particular method as the one way to defeat the giants of evil. From David we learn better. Every one must come to success along his own line. One man may fight in armor, and another with stone and sling; let not the conventionalist despise the originator. David set out to the spectacular duel, equipped only with his shepherd's staff and scrip, holding five smooth stones, and his trusty sling.

The Scornful Giant.

Little wonder that Goliath laughed, in scorn and in indignation. He gnashed his teeth at the insult of sending out this stripling to meet him. That was the giant's great blunder; he despised his enemy. While he boasted and blustered and cursed, his doom advanced quietly to meet him The dignity of David's studied reply would have warned him, had his wit been equal to his inches. The calm certitude and particularity of it were ominous, like the voice of a prophet. Beware of the man who fights calling on his God and convinced that he represents the Lord. "Jehovah saveth not with the sword and spear," David reminded his big opponent.

Then the devout young champion uttered the sentence which is the core of this story, and the secret of every victory for moral reform—the motto which should be inscribed on the banners of those who do battle for total abstinence, for a pure state, for clean cities, for childless factories, for godly schools for a holy Sabbath, for the redress of the wrongs of the workingman, for social purity, for world evangelization, and every other righteous cause. These are the words that interpret the defeat of all Goliaths: "For the battle is Jehovah's." The size and skill of the contending forces is relatively unimportant The supreme question is, "Am I fighting on the Lord's side?"

A Victory and a Prize.

As the giant leaned back his head in a guffaw of laughter—so runs the ancient comment—over the presumptuousness of this beardless youth, whose flesh he meant presently to give to the fowls of the air, the sling of David whirled once, twice, thrice in the air, and then straight to its mark in the head uncovered by Goliath's gesture of disdain, went the pebble from the brook. The practice in marksmanship with which the lad had diverted himself on the hills had not been in vain, no acquirement ever is That despised pebble, from a humble weapon, brought crashing to the dust the proud champion of Philistia!

At once both hills began to re-echo with the shout, "Goliath has fallen!" The two armies, startled by this unexpected issue of the duel, tarried only to see the unarmed boy go forward and cut off Goliath's head with the latter's own sword, before the rout began. Jehovah was vindicated. His glory had been revealed, for he had overcome the mighty by the weak. The shepherd's sling had been used to bring down the mailed warrior whom the world had counted invincible. One more of God's surprises.

As for David, he earned unexpected reward—the highest For he won a friend. Jonathan, the king's son, looked upon him and loved him, and their souls became knit as one. The honors showered on the victor by Saul counted for little alongside of this boon of a friend. Then, as ever, the friendship, formed when engaged in noble service, proved a life-long blessing.

It is hard to see in what way an imputed righteousness is better than a borrowed reputation.

ROYCROFT PHILOSOPHY.

BY FRA ELBERTUS.

Written in a sincere and kindly desire to help the young who do not know, and the older ones who sometimes forget.

YOUR promise to a customer is your employer's promise. A broken promise always hurts; and it shows weakness in the character of a business organization just as unreliability does in an individual.

⁂

The chewing of gum, tobacco or paper as a jaw-exerciser should be eliminated. The world is pronouncing them vulgar, unbusinesslike and dangerous. Keep ahead of your foreman and the Board of Health in this thing.

⁂

Most inaccuracies come from not really listening to what is said, or not really seeing what you put down.

⁂

Having promised to obtain goods or information, or to deliver goods by a certain time, do not start the thing going and trust to luck for the rest. Do your own part in full, and then follow up to know that the rest is moving on schedule time. Remember that the thing specially promised and of special importance needs most watching. "Accidents" and life's "various hindrances" get after just those things with a keen scent.

⁂

Keep your shop open. Losing time hurts your growth in your employer's business as it would in your own if your shop were open and closed, off and on. Avoid absence. Be "on the job" all the days and hours the business allows.

⁂

Give each customer your whole attention—and just as considerate attention to a little buyer as a big one.

⁂

If your business is to wait on customers, be careful of your dress and appearance. Do your manicuring before you reach the store. Dental floss is a good investment A salesman with a bad breath is dear at any price. Let your dress be quiet, neat and not too fashionable. To have a prosperous appearance helps you inwardly and helps the business.

⁂

As a salesman, know your stocks—what you have, and the facts of make, use, beauty and fashion which help and interest a customer. This will make you enthusiastic over your goods, and a good salesman without your knowing it. However, do not be too eager or unduly talkative

⁂

If customers are fault-finding—forget it

THE TERRIFIC FORCE OF A BOLT OF LIGHTNING SHOWN BY WRECKED TREE.

By the Size of the Trunk Compared with the Fence Post Next It, the Size of the Tree May Be Seen.

The attention of a great many people has been drawn, during the past couple of weeks, to the unusual condition of a tree struck by lightning on the farm of John Culp, five miles southwest of LaRue.

During the storm of the afternoon of July 4, about 2 o'clock, a large oak tree, standing perhaps a quarter of a mile from the Culp residence, received a stroke which shattered it as completely as though it were composed of the most fragile material instead of good, stout, green oak. The crash of the descending bolt aroused the entire neighborhood to the fact that it was of unusual weight. The work of the lightning is fully illustrated in the picture the Star presents, is illustrated better than it could be described. Another unusual feature of the stroke was that it tore out a trench some eight inches in depth and several feet long at the base of the tree.

At the same time the tree received the shock, five telephone poles were shattered in the vicinity. Two poles near the tree were struck and the lightning jumped and hit three more.

The picture presented was made a few days ago by Noah Lutz, of Youngstown, a photographer who is making a visit in the city.

CHARLES SELDERS IS TAKEN BEFORE MAYOR

Pleads Guilty To Stealing Corn from Farm.

WILLIAM D. STREET MAKES THE COMPLAINT

Uncapher Farm Frequently Visited by Thieves, Who Carry Off Corn and Potatoes—Selders Is Fined. Receipts of the Mayor During the Past Month—Police Notes.

William D. Streett, a tenant on the Uncapher farm west of the city, filed an affidavit in the mayor's court Friday, July 31, charging Charles Selders with stealing field corn to the value of twenty cents. The Uncapher farm has suffered much lately at the hands of thieves. Corn and some potatoes have been carried away. Selders has been staying at the Dutton home in the West End. When arraigned before the mayor he pleaded guilty to the charge against him, stating that he wanted the corn for his girl's family. Having admitted it was his third trip to the corn field, he was fined one dollar and the costs and sentenced to thirty days in the workhouse. The workhouse sentence was later suspended on the promise of the boy to go home and discontinue the company of the girl.

The home of Earl Bumford, nine miles west of the city on the Kenton pike, was entered while the family was away from home, Saturday afternoon, and a suit of clothes, a shirt, a pair of oxford shoes and other wearing apparel, together with a tie pin, were stolen. All of the articles taken were the property of Audrey Anthony, who is employed by Bumford. The theft was reported to the police for investigation. Nothing else in the house was missing.

William Brunaugh was arrested on north Main street, Saturday night, by Officer Hostetter. Brunaugh was accused of stealing a dollar from the drawer at Philip Rush's barber shop, he having been employed there. A woman named Webb, who conducts a boarding-house on north Main street, charged that Brunaugh owed her a bill. As he was a tramp barber, she believed he intended to leave without paying her. She stated she would appear against the man, Monday, but failed to make her appearance. Rush refused to bring a charge against the man and he was given a hearing on a charge of drunkenness. He pleaded guilty, but having no money with which to pay a fine, he was ordered out of the city.

MRS. JAMES PACE DIES NEAR MARTEL

Death Comes at the Home of a Relative.

IS VISITING WHEN SHE BECOMES ILL

Post-Mortem Examination Is Held To Determine the Exact Cause of Her Death—Demise Is the Result of an Abscess of the Kidney, Followed by Complications.

While visiting at the home of her foster mother, Mrs. Frank Swisher, a mile and a half northwest of Martel, Mrs. James Pace, of Windsor street, this city, died after a brief illness Saturday night at 11 o'clock. A post-mortem examination to determine the exact cause of death was held, Sunday, by Drs. J. E. Baker and J. B. Kring, of Caledonia, and Drs. A. Ribu and H. L. Uhler, of this city. Her death was due to an abscess of the kidney, which produced complications that quickly caused unconsciousness and death.

Mrs. Pace went to the Swisher home from this city, July 28, to gather blackberries. She was taken ill the day she arrived and rapidly grew worse. She had been complaining of feeling ill for some time, but her condition was not regarded serious.

The deceased was about forty years of age, and is survived by a husband and two sons. She was born and raised in the vicinity of Martel and was well known. Her death will come as a shock to many friends and acquaintances throughout the city and county.

The funeral service was held at the German Reformed church, near Martel, Tuesday afternoon. The funeral party will leave the Swisher home for the church at 1 o'clock.

SILAS DICKASON IS WORKING ON COFFIN

The Casket Will Be a Fine One in Every Way.

WHITE OAK USED IN THE CONSTRUCTION

Mr. Dickason Visits the City with a View to Purchasing Handles and Trimmings—The Aged Man Is a Capable Worker in Wood—Will Return Next Week.

"I thought I would drop in here and see if I could get what I wanted. I want to get some trimmings for a casket and some handles."

Oscar Markert, of the firm of Hess & Market, undertakers, looked up in surprise. "You're the old gentleman of Agosta who is making his own casket," said he.

"Yes, I'm Silas Dickason," said the visitor, who is nearly seventy years of age, laying his hand affectionately on the shoulder of the younger man. "I am going to have one of the finest caskets you ever saw when it is completed. Some of the people out there at Agosta thought they knew more about my business than I did when they said it was just going to be plain without any trimmings. I know well enough that the government will give me a decent burial when I die because I was a soldier, but that does not hinder me from making my own coffin."

The old man then went on to explain that the coffin would be constructed of solid white oak and that its trimmings would be as fine as any one could wish. To prove that he was capable of making a fine coffin, the aged visitor said that he had carved out a violin, which Henry Ackerman, of this city, had offered to buy for $100.

Dickason said that he did not have his coffin quite completed, and that he would be back next week to purchase the handles and trimmings.

RAISING MONEY FOR NEW TRACTION LINE

George Brown Receives a Message July 31.

George Brown, local representative for the Findlay-Marion electric line, received a telephone message, Friday morning, from the promoters at Findlay stating that $125,000 of the desired $250,000 had been raised and that indications are that a greater part of the balance necessary to build the road will be raised within a day or two. The promoters will come to Marion some time soon.

The first car to make the trip to the corporation line of Bucyrus from this city over the Columbus, Marion & Bucyrus railway was run, Friday July 31. The trip was made by General Manager George Whysall and a small party of Marionites.

The car left this city at 6.35 o'clock and arrived at the edge of Bucyrus at 7:30 o'clock. The party was met at Bucyrus by several prominent citizens of that city and was taken in automobiles to a hotel for supper. Returning the party arrived in Marion at 9:30 o'clock.

The roadbed is said to be in fine condition, and although no effort was made at speed the journey of eighteen miles, both going and returning, was made in good time.

The line to the public square in Bucyrus will be rushed to completion within a few days. Manager Whysall states that cars will be running between here and Bucyrus on schedule time by August 10. The schedule on the new line, which is an extension of the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Railway company, will be the same as the C., D. & M. road.

Runaway Accident.

The buggy was overturned and Mrs. Brady had her left wrist fractured, while the little daughter of her niece received minor injuries.

There is now on hand nearly $100,000 of the $230,000 wanted for the Episcopal cathedral at St. Paul, on which work has just been started.

CORN CRIB USED FOR LOCK-UP AT MARTEL

Tully Township Constable Has an Experience.

THE FIRST PRISONER MAKES HIS ESCAPE

Officer Has No Place To Put a Drunk as Martel Is Without a Prison—He Places Man in Corn Crib—Secured by a Padlock Which the Prisoner Takes with Him.

The temporary use of an ordinary corn crib for a lock-up at Martel will be abandoned in the future by J. A. Laipley, who holds the position of constable of Tully township and general peacemaker for the community. This mode of imprisonment has proven to be anything but desirable, and, following the flight of a prisoner from the corn crib, the township officer is being made the subject of much humorous ridicule.

The fugitive from justice is an old rounder, who made his appearance in Martel with a jag of great proportions. Speedily he proceeded to become obnoxious to the good citizens of the village, and then Constable Laipley placed him under arrest. Now the village of Martel has no calaboose. It rarely ever has any use for one, so the question of what to do with the intoxicated man became a puzzle for a time. The village constable, who is also the village smithy, cudgeled his brain for a solution of the problem, for he was determined the fellow should be "jugged." Then he became possessed of an idea, which he immediately proceeded to carry out. With his strong and sinewy arms he shoved his prisoner into a corn crib, the door of which he secured with a padlock.

When his day's work was completed at the forge, Constable Laipley retired with his prisoner still in the corn crib. A jail delivery was effected during the night, however, and when Constable Laipley went to the corn crib in the morning the prisoner had fled, taking the padlock with him.

ANNUAL EXCURSION IS GREAT SUCCESS

A Big Crowd Enjoys Outing at Cedar Point.

AN IDEAL DAY FOR OUT-DOOR PLEASURES

The Fairbanks Steam Shovel Company's Excursion Is Well Patronized—There Is but One Accident. Miss Callie Roush Is Overcome by a Wave, but Is Rescued.

The annual excursion of the Fairbanks Steam Shovel company to Cedar Point, July 31, was a success in every way and the crowd was one of the largest that has visited the pleasure resort this season. It was an ideal day for an outing, there being but little sun and the day being cool. The water was warm and most of the pleasure seekers spent the time bathing. The two train loads of people arrived at Sandusky on scheduled time and three boats running to the point gave them an opportunity to get over to the point in a short time. The first train left Sandusky at 7 o'clock and the second section followed a few minutes later.

There was but one accident at the point and many of the excursionists knew nothing of it. Miss Callie Roush, who is employed as a domestic at the C. G. Wiant home, was in bathing with Misses Stella and Loa Gormany when a large wave struck her and she swallowed a quantity of water. She was overcome by the water and was carried from the lake by two men. The young woman was given medical attention at the hospital on the point, but it was over two hours before she regained consciousness. She was quite sick on the train and on reaching here was removed to her home in a cab.

A PROCEEDING TO RECOVER DAMAGES

Result of Accident Suffered by Auto Driver.

Attorney Fred L. Carhart brought suit at Delaware, against the commissioners of Delaware county to recover $1,500 damages as a result of an accident on the night of July 22, when his client, William Carter, ran off a bridge on the Prospect-Norton pike in an automobile and sustained injuries that resulted in concussion of the brain. The machine was wrecked.

It is alleged that the commissioners were negligent in not restoring the bridge's guard-rail, which had rotten off.

ANOTHER APPEAL MADE TO THE STOCKHOLDERS

Matter of Settling Affairs of Local Company.

TIME IS EXTENDED UNTIL AUGUST 10

The Committee Is Trying To Secure Money from Stockholders of the Marion Manufacturing Company To Settle Indebtedness and Put End to All Court Proceedings.

The committee, composed of H. Chisholm, Henry Strelitz and B. G. Young, appointed to affect a settlement of the financial affairs of the Marion Manufacturing company, according to statements made by the company's counsel has secured over two-thirds of the stock subscription necessary, looking to a full settlement of all indebtedness. Because of this encouraging prospect, it is announced that the committee has decided once more to appeal to the stockholders in general to approve the plan of settlement by signing an agreement to pay $20 on the share. Unless a sufficient number of shareholders sign the agreement to wipe out the entire indebtedness of the company no money shall be paid to the committee.

A settlement on this plan is urged because it will, it is claimed, be the cheapest way out of the financial difficulty, in view of the fact that it will save court costs. In addition to this, it is argued, creditors are willing to compromise their claims and take considerably less for a cash settlement. In fact, it is said that members of the committee have been assured by many creditors of not only their willingness but of their desire to compromise their claims.

The twenty-dollar assessment on each share of stock affects about 400 people. Approximately there are about 1,800 shares of stock, which, at twenty dollars a share, would create a fund of about $36,000. The indebtedness amounts to about $35,000, but as there are perhaps fifty shares which are execution proof, a twenty-dollar assessment is necessary.

To avoid all extra cost and delay, the committee is anxious to make a full settlement out of the court, and to give the stockholders another opportunity of agreeing to the plan, the time for meeting its obligations has been extended until August 10.

OPENING SERVICE OF THE CAMP MEETING

Rev. E. S. Dunham Preaches an Able Sermon.

AN EVANGELIST OF CENTRAL CONFERENCE

Big Crowd Turns Out To Enjoy the First Address in the Tent at the Fairground—Rev. Mr. Dunham Talks of the Plan of God and of Spiritual Blessings.

The first annual camp meeting of the Methodist Episcopal churches of the city opened at the fairground, Friday evening, in what is termed a blaze of religious enthusiasm. The night was propitious, and a large number of churchgoers turned out to the meeting, which was conducted in a huge tent. Rev. E. S. Dunham, of Delaware, preached a powerful sermon. He is the evangelist of the Ohio Central conference and a speaker of much ability. At the close of the service several people came forward and requested prayers of the church.

Rev. Mr. Dunham spoke on "Spiritual Blessings," taking his text from Ephesians 1:1-9. He said in part:

"It is strange how a sinner has a distorted vision of God as being a very hard Master. This is wrong in every way, as any one who experiences the great blessing of full salvation will evidence. God is ever ready to bless us, because He loves us so. He loves us with such a wonderful love. If people could see for one minute the glories of the spirit of God, they would forever be lost to the devil. This was God's plan. There is a joy which men can never know until through the atonement of Jesus Christ they receive the love of God.

"God's capital is the supernatural power in the heart of the preacher, in the hearts of the people in the pews, in the hearts of the people in the choir lott. People are seeking this everywhere except in the right place. When you get pardon for your sins you get the first installment of heaven. When you have a pure heart, a white life, a sanctified being, you have received such installment of heaven that you will not want to die to go to heaven, for you will have heaven in your soul.

"If you have a grudge against any one, you are not a christian. Your place is at the mourner's bench. The heart is not right. We cannot have the blessing of God and hold a grudge. There is no substitute for the atonement. Our character is all that we can take to the next world. Naked we come into the world, naked we will go out of it. The man who has a billion, but is without this spiritual blessing is a pauper."

In conclusion the speaker urged the congregation to accept God and receive the spiritual blessing, which alone can fit one for a home in heaven.

Many pastors and evangelists will be present during the meetings, which will continue until Sunday, August 9.

DEWEY BOYER VERY BADLY HURT SUNDAY

Lad Falls from a Tree at McKinley Park.

Ten-year-old Dewey Boyer, who, with his mother, Mrs. Arthur Boyer, of Detroit, is visiting at the W. Bolander home on south Prospect street, fell from an apple tree at McKinley park and sustained serious internal injuries, Sunday evening about 5 o'clock. The lad fell a distance of eighteen or twenty feet and was rendered insensible. Several boy companions dragged him to the lake and threw water in his face in an effort to restore him to consciousness. Failing in this they carried him to a nearby house and Dr. H. J. Lower was summoned. The boy was still unconscious when the surgeon arrived. An examination developed that he had suffered no broken bones, but serious internal injuries.

Monday the boy was considerably improved, although his condition is regarded dangerous. He is conscious, but has been unable to tell any details of the accident.

PROCEEDING BEGUN IN COMMON PLEAS COURT

Mrs. David Himminger Wants a Divorce.

HUSBAND DRINKS AND WIFE STARVES

Is Compelled To Go Without Eating at Times—Harry E. Carpenter Sues Lenox Reber for $100 Commission on Sale of Real Estate—Some Court Notes.

Charging her husband with extreme cruelty and gross neglect of duty, Odilvey J. Himminger brought suit for divorce from David F. Himminger, Monday, in the common pleas court, through her attorney, L. E. Myers. They were married in this city February 27, 1892, and have one son. The plaintiff claims that the defendant has repeatedly struck her and, because of his excessive drinking she has been compelled to go without eating for days at a time. She avers that he has deserter her many times. She asks temporary and permanent alimony.

Lenox Reber was made the defendant in a suit to recover $381.10 on an alleged verbal contract brought by Harry E. Carpenter, Monday, in the common pleas court, through Attorney Fred W. Warner. The plaintiff asserts that he was to receive $400 commission on the sale of certain real estate. Only a few dollars of this commission has ever been paid, according to the plaintiff's petition.

In the suit of W. F. Kniffin against W. M. Jackson and others, a general denial is contained in an answer filed by the defendants, through Attorney Harry J. Nichols, in the common pleas court.

William T. Mitchell, arrested in Fairfield county on a charge of nonsupport preferred by his former wife, and held to the Marion county grand jury, may be released on bond as a result of the efforts of his present wife. The latter arrived here, Friday afternoon, and had Judge Babst fix his bond at $300.

Mitchell's first wife obtained a divorce and $500 alimony in May. A few days after granting the decree Mitchell married a widow with three children in Fairfield county.

In the damage suit of Olen Blue against the Hocking Valley Railroad company, an amended petition has been filed in the common pleas court by Attorneys DeGolley & DeGolley.

At the request of the plaintiff's attorneys the divorce suit of Sarah E. Houk against Christopher Houk was dismissed by Judge Babst, Friday afternoon. The Houks are living together again.

In the receivership matter of the Marion Tool & Specialty company, the report of Appraisers George Bender, C. S. Lippincott and Fred W. Peters has been approved and confirmed. Judge Babst, Friday, authorized Fred L. Carhart, the receiver, to sell the property at private sale and to bring suit to enforce payment of the unpaid stock.

The suit of J. T. Hatch against Elizabeth Ferrel and others has been dismissed at the costs of the plaintiff. Hatch sued for the appointment of a receiver for the Ferrel Medicine company and an accounting.

Clyde Smith, eighteen years old, who was one of the quintet arrested by detectives of the Erie Railroad company on a charge of stealing brass valued at $40, through his next best friend, Laura J. Smith, Friday, July 31, instituted suit in the common pleas court against the Erie Railroad company for $1,000 damages.

It is alleged that on July 21, on affidavits signed by E. C. Curry, superintendent of the Erie police, Smith was arrested falsely and maliciously and without reasonable or probable cause locked in jail for a period of ninety-two hours. At his trial, July 24, he was acquitted in the court of Justice C. E Gompf. He claims that his reputation has been damaged by reason of his arrest.

Alleging that her husband subjected her to most brutal treatment, Ada Berridge, through her attorney, L. E. Myers, instituted suit for divorce from John Berridge, Tuesday, in the common pleas court They were married January 21, 1894, since which time the plaintiff claims her husband has cruelly treated her. Never was she allowed to go to church or visit neighbors, according to the petition, and frequently she was cursed by the defendant Upon occasions the plaintiff says that the defendant tore the clothes from her body and concealed them.

The plaintiff says that after her husband became intimate with another woman, she was compelled to leave him, having been driven from home last May. She asks to be restored to her maiden name of Ada Weiss and that the defendant be denied any dower right in eighty acres owned by the plaintiff in Big Island township.

YEAR JUST PASSED IS RECORD BREAKER

American Shipbuilding Booms All the Year.

REPORTS RECEIVED FROM BUILDERS

The Bureau of Navigation Finds the Shipbuilders Very Busy and the Center of the Industry on the Great Lakes—Number of Steel and Wooden Vessels.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The fiscal year ended June 30 has been the record year of American shipbuilding, according to reports to the bureau of navigation, and the center of the industry is on the Great lakes.

During the year, 1,506 vessels of 588,627 gross tons were built and numbered in the United States, of which seventy-five steel steamers of 304,379 gross tons were built on the Great lakes. The largest annual output heretofore was in the year 1855 when 2,024 vessels of 589,459 tons were built. In that year the Great lakes built only 263 vessels of 45,423 tons.

This year steel vessels built numbered 142 of 417,167 gross tons compared with 360,665 tons built last year. These two are the years of the largest steel construction in the United States.

The tonnage built is entirely for domestic transportation, no vessels exclusively for foreign trade having been built in the United States.

Of the 142 steel vessels, eighty-five exceeded 1,000 gross tons each, fifty-five on the Great lakes, the largest being the William M. Mills of 7,962 tons and thirty on the seaboard, the largest being the Columbian of 8,579 tons, built at San Francisco for trade to Hawaii.

Four wooden sailing vessels exceeding 1,000 tons each were built during the year, the largest being the Edward J. Lawrence of 3,350 gross tons.

EXCELLENT FEATURE ATTRACTIONS GALORE

Opening Date of the Ohio State Fair.

FINE EXHIBITIONS IN ALL DEPARTMENTS

The Gates of the State Fairground Will Be Thrown Open to the Women of the State the First Day of Fair—Record for Attendance Promises To Be Broken.

The Ohio State fair will open in all its grandeur on Monday, August 31, next, to continue five full days, and as a special tribute to Ohio's womanhood the gates will be thrown open free to the ladies of the state on the opening date.

The rules of the exposition require all exhibits to be in place, ready for public inspection, at nine o'clock a. m., August 31, thus assuring a complete show in each department at that time, and in addition special features will be provided to entertain the ladies These will consist of band concerts, piano recitals, spirited harness racing and a superb line of feature vaudeville performances.

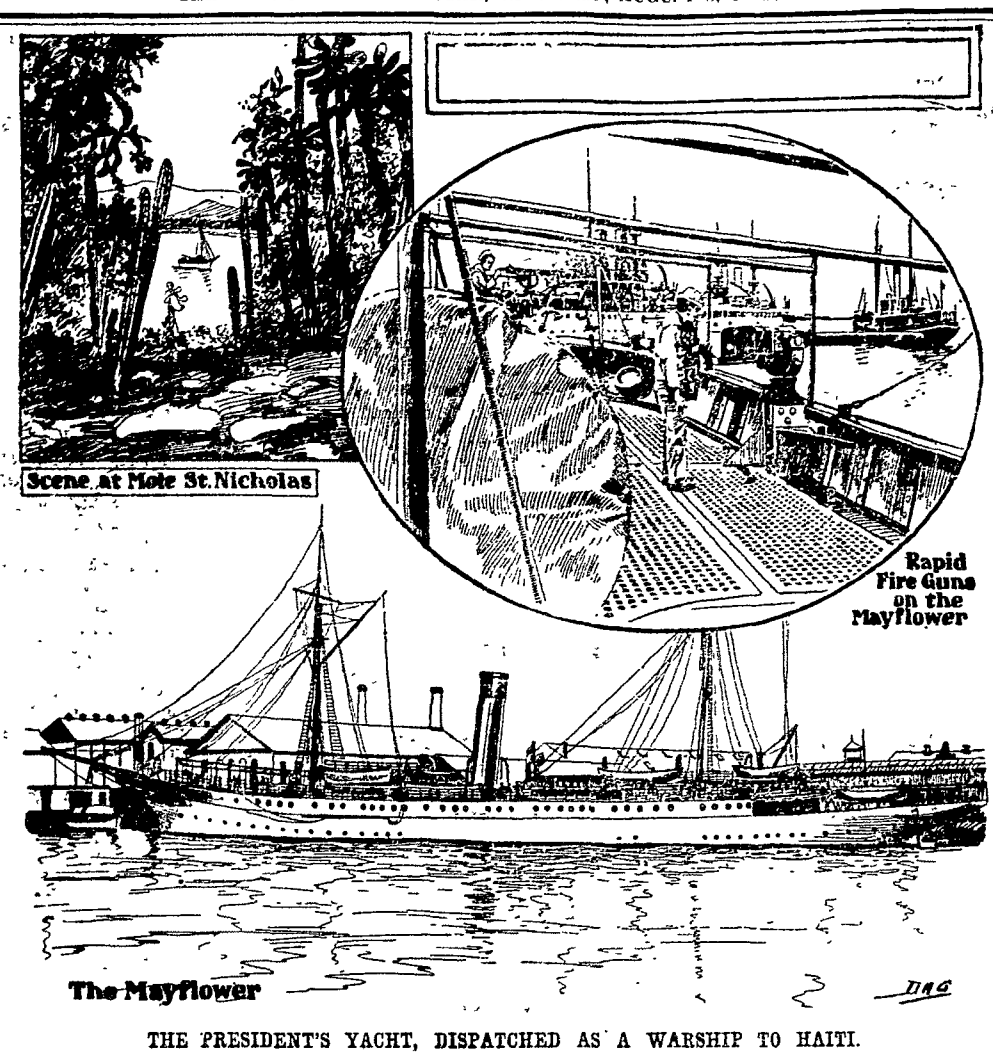
The exposition proper will be more extensive in its competitive exhibits, greater in its educational influences, grander in its park scenic effects, than any previous exhibition, while amusement features galore will be provided to entertain.

While the ladies will be particularly interested in the displays of their handiwork in the Woman's bulding, they will be equally interested in the magnificent displays of pure bred stock, the gorgeous exhibits of horticultural and agricultural products and the acres of humming, circling farm and shop machinery.

Ohio's exposition, with its magnificent grounds and building equipment, is truly representative of the progressiveness of our state, and the annual exhibition, with its numerous displays of the arts and industries, is a grand school of learning of the highest rank.

Every indication points to a most successful exhibition, and no doubt the attendance will far exceed that of last year.

You are not likely to do much for the poor fellow on the Jericho road if you are anxious for the approval of the Pharisee.



THE PRESIDENT'S YACHT, DISPATCHED AS A WARSHIP TO HAITI.

The president's yacht, the Mayflower, having been hurried to Port au Prince, Haiti, where the gunboat Paducah is now stationed, she probably will be used by Robert Bacon, assistant secretary of state, for a personal inspection of famine and revolutionary conditions on the island. In this connection it has been announced at Washington that the assistant secretary of state probably will make such a tour after his forthcoming visit to Porto Rico. The crisis in Haiti is claiming the close attention of the officials in Washington, and the absence of a sufficient number of gunboats rendered it necessary to press the president's yacht into service. The Mayflower really is a converted yacht and carries fourteen guns, the largest of which are four inch.

SOME KINDS OF TREES HAVE MANY ALIASES

This Is Unfortunate for a Great Many Reasons.

DIFFERENCE LEADS TO MUCH CONFUSION

Scientists Avoid the Confusion in the Names as They Are Given in Various Localities by the Use of a Nomeclature System Carefully Devised and Well Guarded.

Washington, Aug. 1.—Some kinds of trees have as many aliases as the criminal with the longest police court record. For many reasons this is most unfortunate. To scientists, the confusion which results when people mean different things by the same word or use different words for the same thing, is intolerable, and therefore they use a carefully devised and carefully-guarded system of nomenclature.

The every-day man is apt to be impatient with what seems the pedantic fondness of the botanist for jaw-breaking Latin names which mean nothing to the uninitiated, when common usage supplies a familiar name. But the trouble is that on the familiar name there is seldom any agreement. The difficulty is generally over what the botanist calls the specific name. It is easy enough to tell an ork from a maple or a pine from a spruce. But oak, maple, pine and spruce are generic names, and each genus includes a number of species Here begins a confusion which often approaches chaos.

Not only do different localities apply different names to the same species and the same name to different species, but in the same locality several different names may be used for a single species.

The local names given to the forty-seven different oaks which form forest trees in the United States are almost without limit. The true white oak, however, the noblest tree of the oak tribe, seems to have no nickname except in Arkansas, where it is occasionally known as stave oak. But a good many other kinds are also called white oak.

As illustrative of the confusion which exists in different localities regarding the names,—what is called black locust in Pennsylvania is yellow locust in Massachusetts, white locust in New York, red locust in one part of Tennessee and green in another. In Maine it is simply locust, in Louisiana acacia, in Minnesota honey locust, and in Maryland post locust. These many names overlap and are not strictly separated by state lines. On the other hand, the true honey locust—which belongs to an altogether distinct genus from the black locust—is known also as black locust, sweet locust, thorn locust, locust, three-thorned acacia, thorn-tree, honey shucks, piquant amourette, Confederate pintree, and a few other names. And there are dozens of other examples in species where the confusion of names is appalling.

The birches are rich in names, and some cling after the lumber reaches market "Cherry" and "mahogany" furniture may be made from what in Maine is know as sweet birch.

It's easy for a two-faced person to manufacture a bare-faced lie

REV. O. D. MAPLE IS COMING TO MARION

Says He Is Coming After Those Who Persecute Him.

LOSES PLACE AS TEMPORARY PASTOR

Intimates That He Will Come to Marion and Make Rev. B. C. Platt "Eat His Words"—Denies Story of Indianapolis Episode and Explains Story of Grocery Bill.

A Washington special to the Columbus Evening Dispatch of August 3 says:

The Rev. O. D. Maple, who recently lost his place as temporary pastor of the Thirty-fourth Street Christian church at Mount Ranier, Prince George county, Maryland, in a lecture in this city last night, announced that he was going back to Marion, Ohio, to get after his persecutors. His deposal as temporary pastor came after an investigation of his ecclesiastical past conducted by the church board and aided by two letters that came from Marion, one of them dealing with an unpaid grocery bill in that city, the other referring to an incident at an Indianapolis hotel.

The grocery bill Rev. Maple says he could not pay because his congregation was in arrears. The Indianapolis story is indignantly denied. The indignant churchman intimates that he is going back to Marion to make the Rev. Byron C. Platt, present pastor of the church there, "eat his words."

One box of this excellent remedy relieved me of an intense pain in the back and a constant lameness which made me weak and out of sorts all the time. I was so glad to find this prompt relief that I gave a testmonial for publication at that time, and during the five years since then I have not had a single symptom of kidney trouble. News of Mr. Whipps' death was received by local relatives Tuesday. He was born and raised in this county. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nathias Whipps, well known residents. Five years ago, with his family, Mr. Whipps moved to California on acount of his health. He is survived by a widow and two daughters, Miss Bernice Whipps, of Pasadena, and Mrs Herbert Balch, of Colton, California.

Mr. Whipps was a brother of William D. Whipps, Joshua Whipps, Washington Whipps and Marion Whipps, well-known residents of this county. He was employed by the Huber Manufacturing company for a period of twenty-five years, and during his residence here was held in the highest regard of a wide circle of friends.

FIRST GATHERING IN NEW BAPTIST CHURCH

Sunday-School Enjoys a Pleasant Session.

THE ATTENDANCE EXTREMELY LARGE

Several Addresses Are Made by Workers in the Sunday-School and the Pastor—A Special Service Is Held by the Young People of the United Brethren Church.

The members of the Free Baptist church held the first session of Sunday-school in their new edifice on south Main street Sunday morning. As the church has not been dedicated, the meeting was held in the lecture room and was one of the largest Sunday-school gatherings the church has ever had, there being over 350 present. The collection amounted to about $18.

A special program was arranged for the meeting and as there were no church services, this was quite lengthy. The program was opened with an invocation by the pastor, Rev. G. E. Barnard. Following a selection by an orchestra and a song by the school, the lesson was read. Devotional exercises were led by Superintendent J. S. Ragil. After reciting the first Psalm and a song by the school, Rev. G. E. Barnard delivered an interesting address on Sunday-school work. Miss Winifred Gast contributed a vocal selection after which short talks were made by Mrs. J. A. Wolford, Miss Nettie Fite, Miss Anna McWilliams, Miss Laura Rathell, Miss Anna Fite, A. S. Keeler and Edward Uncapher. A violin solo was given by Miss Clara Leffler and after a selection by the orchestra the program was closed with prayer by the pastor.

Young People Meet.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor occupied the regular preaching hour, at the United Brethren church, Sunday evening, with a brief program which was very much enjoyed by a large audience.

The topic of the evening was "How Can We Serve the Church?"

The program was opened with singing, a chain of prayers and scripture reading. E. R. Sykes then gave a three-minute talk on the topic and brought out some valuable points as to the work of the young people in the church, what the society has done and is doing for the rebuilding of the church work.

Royal F. Martin gave a brief address on "Wherein Lies the Power of the Church?" The address was short but was entertaining and instructive. Clark Bender spoke of "What Are the Duties of a Church Member?" His talk was very helpful. Lawrence E. Ames was heard with interest in his address, "Why Is No Christian Excused from Church Work?" Mrs. Carrie Dunn followed with a fine address on "What Is the Best Way in Which a Young Person Can Serve the Church?"

The exercises were closed with a song, a brief address on the work of the young people and prayer.

The young people of the United Brethren church have been giving a series of excellent progress in which ideas are advanced as to their work and have been demonstrating how much it means to a church to have the young people deeply interested in its advancement.

MOTHER AND CHILD SECURE GOOD HOME

Child-Mother Is Deserted by Her Husband.

IS SAVED SUNDAY FROM THE INFIRMARY

Mrs. Clifford Lewis and Her Child Are Given a Comfortable Home at West Jefferson by Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lewis—Young Lewis Missing Since July 4.

Sixteen-year-old Mrs. Clifford Lewis and her babe, deserted last July 4 by the husband and father, through the efforts of the Marion County Humane society, have been given a good home with the missing man's aged parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lewis, at West Jefferson. Thus the child-wife and her infant are saved from becoming inmates of the poorhouse.

Several months ago Clifford Lewis was arrested on a paternity charge. He was brought here from Columbus and, after a few days in jail, gained his freedom by marrying the girl he had wronged. She was Miss Mary Diehl. The ceremony was performed by Justice C. H. Conley in the probate court. Shortly after the birth of the baby, Lewis disappeared. A warrant was issued for his arrest and his parents learned of it.

Sunday, the missing young man's father arrived in Marion. He saw his daughter-in-law and little grandson for the first time. He was accompanied by Officer Ulsh, of the humane society.

"That's Clifford's boy, all right," smiled the old man, as he grasped the babe in his arms. "He's got his eyes, nose and forehead, and as long as I live you'll never want, little girl."

There were tears in the eyes of those who witnessed the pathetic scene.

A STAR FEATURE OF RINGLING BROTHERS

Great Animal Trainer Brings a Great Horse.

FINE EXAMPLE OF ANIMAL EDUCATION

Trained Elephants and Zebras with the Shows—A Splendid List of Riders and Aerialists—An Automobile Somersault Is the Sensation of the Entertainment.

Riccobono, the world's greatest animal trainer, who developed the marvelous "Good-Night" horse and electrified all Europe with his wonderful company of four-footed actors, is this year a star feature with Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest shows.

Beyond question this act is the greatest example of animal education before the public. In addition to the "Good-Night" horse, which wears coat, pants and boots, removes them, makes its own bed and climbs into it, Riccobono is also exhibiting a horse that plays football, dances on its hind feet and skips the rope. There is nothing under the sun that resembles this great act, nor has anything ever been done that can in any way compare with it.

When Ringling Brothers' circus visits Marion on Monday, August 10, it will be noticed that trained animal acts are a prominent feature on the long and varied bill. Frank Schadl's burlesque zebra menage act, three new herds of trained elephants, Wormwood's educated bears, Kerslake and his company of pig actors and a troupe of high-school ponies and a few of the more important offerings in the trained animal way.

It is an all-star European company that is presenting this season's program. Prominent among the riders are the wonderful Bastiens of France, the great Clark brothers from England, the Bedini family from Italy, Miss Dutton from Australia, the Hobsons, Elsa St. Leon, John Agie and Miss Stickney. Among the acrobats are the Patty Brothers from Italy, who walk on their heads; the Belfords from Australia; the Mizra Golems from the court of the Shah of Persia; the Marnello-Marnitz, musical acrobats from Italy; the Eight St. Leons, Burgeos and Clara, Marguerite and Hanley, the the Ballios and the Eight Carnellos, all from Europe.

On the long list of aerialists are the Clarkonians, the Jordans, Alvarez, the Shaws, the Smiths, the Milletts, the Wards, Miss Balliot and the Jordan sisters. In addition to a company of fifty clows fun is also furnished by the Prosit Trio, Horton and Linden and the Livingstons, burlesque wire and bar actors, and the Toreadors in a bullfight travesty. The Martell family and the Jackson family of bicyclists, De Marlo and John Miller, contortionists, and a wonderful company of Japs are also of great value as headliners.

The sensation of the excellent program is the automobile double somersault performed by Mlle. La Belle Roche. It is the most dangerous and daring performance ever achieved. A new parade and a new opening spectacle also add to the enjoyment of the day.

BIG BLACK BEAR LOOSE ON STREETS

Horse Is Almost Frightened to Death.

One of the big black bears used in the exhibitions being given this week at the Grand opera-house escaped from his fastenings at the opera-house, Tuesday afternoon, and started out calling. He got as far as the Baptist church, where he stopped and tried to be friendly with a horse tied on Center street. The horse was almost frightened to death and made frantic efforts to break its fastenings. The bear was overtaken by his keeper at this point and was returned to the opera-house.

If the baby is noticeably soiled as to face and raiment, the mother apologizes by explaining how many times she has cleaned it up in the course of the day.

THE SUBSCRIPTION OF MONEY NEEDED

Members of Owen Gray Post, No. 274, G. A. R., at LaRue, have taken it upon themselves to inaugurate a campaign throughout the United States looking to the raising of an enormous sum of money by popular subscription to build a first-class battleship for the use of the government.

The only request to be made of the federal government, when the battleship is completed, is that the ship shall bear the name of Grand Army of the Republic.

The resolutions as adopted by Owen Gray post speak of the defenseless condition of our coast and express a desire to add to our seaboard defenses and to show loyalty to the union by the construction of a huge battleship.

Shall I Buy a Cream Separator?

WILL IT PAY ME IF I DO?

Butter is too valuable a product to feed to calves or pigs.

Originally the calf got all the cream.

When the milk was set on the cellar shelf, the calf got half the cream and the other half was made into butter.

By setting the milk in spring water, the calf gets one-third the cream and two-thirds goes to butter.

The patent creamer, with ice, gets three-fourths of the cream for butter and one-fourth goes to the calf, in the skim-milk.

The Sharpless Tubular Separator gets all the cream for butter making, and the calf can be fed on perfectly skimmed milk.

THE SHARPLESS CREAM SEPARATOR is absolutely a big money maker, because it prevents waste of cream—and in a 10 cow dairy, you might sell enough cows to pay for a separator, and the cows remaining will make you far more money than when you had the whole herd, and no separator.

SAVED BY HIS COAT OF MAIL

Attempt Made on Life of Sultan of Turkey.

ABDUL HAMID IS STABBED IN BREAST

Would-Be Assassin Is a Minor Official.

Guards, Who Quickly Follow the Assailant of Abdul Hamid into the Sultan's Room, Overpower Him and Place Him Under Arrest—Carries Bag of Gold Believed To Have Been Price of Sultan's Death.

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 5—Sultan Abdul Hamid was stabbed in the breast in his private apartments in the Yildiz Kiosk, Monday night, by one of the minor officials of the palace, according to a telegram received here today from Constantinople by one of the leaders of the young Turkish movement.

The message says that the only thing that saved the sultan's life was the coat of mail that he wore next to his body. This deflected the knife thrust, which otherwise would have entered his heart. The blow was so violent that the point of the knife was broken off.

The guards, who quickly followed the assailant into the sultan's room, overpowered him and placed him under arrest. The young man tried to escape the guards, but his movements were hindered by a bag of gold that he carried.

It is believed that this gold was a bribe paid to him for this deed.

Report Is Confirmed.

London, Aug. 5.—The reported attempt on the life of the sultan, Monday night, by a palace attache is confirmed in messages received here today from Constantinople.

The sultan, alarmed at the continued hatred of some of his subjects, has not appeared in public since Monday's attack. Two armed generals are kept in constant attendance upon him, and the sultan himself moves about the palace now fully armed. Revolver practice is being held, and while heretofore the sultan has never boasted of his marksmanship, he is reported as becoming an expert shot.

What is most feared is an intrigue within the palace. The danger of being poisoned constantly haunts the sultan and extra precautions are being taken to guard his food. Armor plated doors have been added to the kitchen, to prevent entrance by plotters, and every dish that is served the ruler is first sampled.

It was learned today that an attempt to assassinate the sultan was made July 21, 1905, when he visited the Hamidish mosque in the palace grounds.

The agitation against the sultan is the work of the young Turks, who are dissatisfied with his work of reform. They insist that he is not sincere and that the new cabinet is made up of old fossils and conservatives, from whom no appreciable reform can be expected.

The young Turks also say that the sultan has already violated the constitution in naming ministers of war and marine, he only having the right to appoint the grand vizier and the sheik-ul-islam.

The young Turks threaten a military dictatorship unless the sultan adheres absolutely to the constitution.

Ambassador Not Informed.

Washington, Aug. 5.—At the Turkish legation, as well as the state department, the United Press despatches telling of the attempted assassination of the sultan was the first news of the occurrence.

Mehmed Ali Bey, the Turkish minister, said that he very much regretted the felonious assault and expressed his pleasure that the sultan was apparently uninjured. He was of the opinion that, coming at just this time, the attempt upon the life of the sultan was particularly unfortunate, and might result in reactionary tendencies.

As for the report that he is to be recalled as Turkish minister to the United States, he was uninformed.

There is, however, reason to believe that the statement is correct as stated in the Constantinople despatch, Mehmed Ali is affiliated with the old regime which is now being thrown out of office by the sultan in response to the demands of the young Turkish party.

Ambassador Reported Recalled.

Constantinople, Aug. 5.—It was reported here today that the sultan had recalled the Turkish ambassador to Washington, Mehmed Ali Bey. The report could not be confirmed, though it is generally accepted.

Mehmed Ali Bey belongs to the old Turkish regime, all the members of which will probably be dismissed from public service before Abdul Hamid completes the reform on which he has started.

Nothing is known as to who will succeed to the post at Washington.

OHIO WHEAT YIELD WILL FALL OFF

That's the Report of the State Agricultural Department.

Columbus, O., Aug. 5.—Indications are that Ohio's yield of wheat this year will fall considerably below that of last in total bushels. The monthly report of the state department of agriculture, issued Wednesday, places the crop at threshing at eighty-two per cent of an average for year. This is two per cent. better than the estimate of August 1, 1907, but this year's acreage is twelve per cent. short of last year's.

The oats yield is placed at only sixty-five per cent. of an average. No estimate is made on growing corn, but scattering reports from township correspondents run generally to the effect that indications point to a fair crop.

Southwestern Ohio has been suffering from a long drought but other parts of the state have fared quite well with rain.

Most Violent Is First Early in Morning.

French Troops Are Rushed to Constantine To Protect the Terror-Stricken People from Bandits Who Are Taking Advantage of the Terror To Plunder All Classes—Outlaws Shot on Sight.

Constantine, Algeria, Aug. 5.—Following the terrible confusion of the earthquake that yesterday crushed out the lives of from 500 to 1,000 native Algerians in a score of towns, came a reign of terror inaugurated today by bandits, who, in their attempts to loot the ruins, have begun butchering the defenseless inhabitants, including a number of helpless injured.

French troops, wherever available, have rushed to the defense of the quake victims, and are shooting down the outlaws on sight.

Calls have been sent to French garrisons not included in the earthquake zone to send soldiers to the stricken towns to hold in check the lawless elements.

In scores of towns throughout the province, the dead are today being removed from the ruins of the series of quakes, that intermittently rocked a vast stretch of Constantine from shortly after 2 o'clock in the morning until late in the afternoon.

First Is Most Violent.

The first shock was the most violent It lasted ten seconds and did by far the greatest amount of damage, the following shocks serving only to complete the work of devastation begun by the initial quake. Almost without exception the victims are natives who live in the poorly-constructed quarters of the affected towns. In the substantially built houses few deaths occurred, though almost without exception the houses were badly damaged.

Estimates of the total number of dead are constantly growing as new scenes of havoc are encountered.

200,000 Natives Homeless.

Two hundred thousand natives are homeless as a result of the quake, and the problem of caring for them in the immediate future is a serious one. The shock in this city was less severe than elsewhere and no deaths have as yet been reported here, though the Arab quarter was practically leveled Some of the largest buildings in the city were damaged, including the theater, a hotel, the bank and the market-house.

The suburbs of Constantine suffered greatly, and when the ruins are cleared away, it is certain that many bodies will be found, as a number of persons are missing. The towns of Rouftach and Conde Meudon suffered probably the greatest damage. Hundreds of dwellings were wrecked in these places, and the death list will be heavy.

Reports of heavy damage at Guelma, Soukaheras, Philippeville, Aln Smara, Bizon, Kurkhell and Bona are coming in. No deaths occurred at Bona, though the people were thrown into a violent panic.

Boston lodges set aside $1,000 each to keep open house for the visiting brethren, and pilgrimages to Plymouth Rock, Concord, Lexington, Bunker Hill and other historic places were the order of the entertainment.

CONGRESSMAN COLE A HERO

Rescues Two Women from Drowning at Findlay.

BOAT CONTAINING PARTY IS UPSET

Seven Are Rescued and One Is Drowned.

The Party Is Shooting the Chute When the Accident Occurs—When Boat Hits the Water the Fool Who Rocks the Boat Gets in His Work and It Turns Turtle, Throwing Occupants into the Water.

Findlay, O., Aug. 5.—Congressman Ralph Cole, of Findlay, got into the limelight as a hero late last night when he rescued two young women from drowning during a fatal shoot-the-chute accident at Riverside park.

The boat had only gone about fifteen feet in the water when it capsized, throwing out all of the occupants. Clark Sponsler, twenty, of North Baltimore, was drowned. It is believed he was struck on the head by the overturning boat and rendered unconscious, as he never rose after going down the first time.

There was more than a thousand people on the bank when the accident occurred. Congressman Cole was among the spectators. He plunged into the eighteen feet of water and succeeded in dragging Miss Beatrice Harlow, an actress of New York, and Miss Helen Baker, of North Baltimore, from the water.

Others Are Saved.

Others, who were in the boat were saved by spectators, were James Doherty, an actor of New York, W. M. Elley, of Findlay; Miss Myrtle York, Leonore Frost and Justine Smith, all of North Baltimore.

Just how the accident occurred is not clear. It was stated at first that the boat was so heavily loaded that when it struck the water the bottom was torn out.

When the craft was raised, however, it was found that there was only a small break in the bottom, hardly sufficient to cause it to sink so quickly as it did.

Congressman Cole said last night, immediately after the accident occurred, that he saw one of the men stand up and rock the boat causing it to capsize.

The actor and actress who were in the accident are playing here this week in vaudeville at the summer theater at the park.

Fall of 200 Feet After Dash on Mountain.

The Experience of United States District Attorney Baker and His Bride and Friends—Machine Turns Somersaults and Lands in a Tree Thirty Feet from Earth—None of the Party Badly Hurt.

New York, Aug. 5.—United States District Attorney Baker, of Washington, who successfully prosecuted the land frauds in the Northwest, his bride of two months and several friends had a miraculous escape from death, Tuesday, when their automobile running down a sharp hill on Walnut mountain in the Catskills got out of control and plunged over a 200 foot precipice.

The machine turned three somersaults in the air and landed in the boughs of an immense tree thirty feet below the brink of the precipice, where it hung upside down, the occupants still prisoners in their seats. All were badly bruised and frightened, but none were seriously hurt. The party was rescued from the automobile with ropes. The party was brought to this city by train and several members taken to a hospital.

MOTOR EXPLODES, WRECKING HULL

Gas Bags Are Liberated and Float Away.

Zeppelin Is Sorely Disappointed Over His Misfortune, Which Comes When Success Is So Near at Hand as He Hopes To Sell His Machine to Germany—Emperor William Promises Him Funds.

Stuttgart, Aug. 5.—Count Zeppelin's airship was completely destroyed this afternoon by an explosion of the motors. The aluminum framework was torn asunder, releasing the big gas bags, which disappeared in the clouds.

The explosion resulted from the benzine motor catching fire while workmen were welding the metal propellor.

The flames shot high in the air, and the explosion of the motors followed within a few seconds. Four of the workmen were seriously injured Count Zeppelin escaped.

The aluminum hull, torn and twisted beyond further use, is all that remains of the big airship

Zeppelin was broken-hearted over the catastrophe, and for a while broke down and wept A message from Emperor William promising to contribute funds for a new airship served to cheer up the count.

Will Build New Ship.

Zeppelin announced later that he would immediately begin the construction of a new airhip.

Searching parties have gone in search of the gas bags which were carried swiftly away in the strong wind.

Today' mishap occurred shortly before 8 o'clock, an hour after Zeppelin had hoped to be in Friederichshafen.

The defect in the motor seriously interfered with the speed of the airship long before it was decided to bring the craft to earth. The ship passed Stuttgart shortly after 6 o'clock this morning and alighted on a plateau near Re Echterdingen, five miles south of Stuttgart, an hour and a half later.

Two companies of grenadiers were sent from Stuttgart to keep the curious crowds away from the ship during the repair work. After the mishap of last evening, the ship returned to Mayence and began its night journey on the homeward stretch before a fine wind.

The count is keenly disappointed that he could not make an uninterrupted flight of twenty-four hours Had he made good the government would have accepted the airship.

The airship that was destroyed today was 443 feet long with a diameter of forty-five feet. It cost $125,000, this sum being voted by the Reichstag with the understanding that if it fulfilled certain requiremen's, chief among which was that it remain in the air twenty-four hours and land on the ground, the government would have the right to purchase it.

It was the fourth big airship that Count Zeppelin had built, his personal fortune having been exhausted in the building of the first three. It was the biggest airship in the world.

THE ACCIDENT IS THE RESULT OF CLOUDBURST

DEATH COMES UNEXPECTEDLY

Details of Passing of Senator Allison.

IOWAN CARRIED OFF BY HEART DISEASE

Which Is Complicated by Kidney Trouble.

The Death of Allison Removes from the Senate a Man Who for Over a Quarter of a Century Is One of Its Foremost Members—A Native of Ohio, Having Been Born at Perry in 1829.

Dubuque, Ia., Aug 5.—Heart failure was the immediate cause of the death of United States Senator Allison, who died Tuesday afternoon in this city. The end came as a result of a sinking spell, due to a prostatic enlargement, complicated with kidney disease, and during a period of unconsciousness which has lasted since Saturday afternoon. Two weeks ago the senator left his home in the city to escape the heat. He went to the home of Mrs. Fannie Stout, a friend of the family, living on the Asbury road, a few miles from town. For a few days his condition seemed to improve, but he later began growing worse. Medical advisers urged that an operation be performed to relieve the prostatic enlargement, which was bringing his condition to a crisis. Saturday morning the senator was brought back home. Soon afterward he relapsed into semi-consciousness. Except for brief periods of partial recovery, he remained in this condition until death

Allison's death removes from the senate a man who for over a quarter of a century was one of its most prominent members. He had served continuously since 1873, and for the greater part of his term of service he was recognized as one of the most influential members of that body. As chairman of the committee on appropriations much of the financial legislation passed through his hands. Mr. Allison served as a member of house of representatives in the Thirty eighth, Thirty-ninth, Fortieth and Forty-first congresses prior to his election to the senate.

Senator Allison was born at Perry, O., March 2, 1829, the son of John and Mary Allison. His boyhood days he spent on the farm which was his birthplace. Reaching young manhood, he secured his education in Allegheny college in Pennsylvania and the Western Reserve college of Ohio, in both of which schools he distinguished himself at winning honors in all the branches which he studied Senator Allison was admitted to the bar in 1850 He was married to Miss Anna Carter of Wooster, O., at Ashland, O., in February, 1854. From 1850 until 1857 he practiced law in Ohio. In 1857 he removed to Dubuque, where he took up the practice of the law.

The Funeral Arrangements.

Dubuque, Ia., Aug. 5.—Funeral arrange ments for Senator Allison were perfected at noon today. The exercises will be held Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the house on Locust street. There will be an eulogy and a simple prayer, but no flowers and the funeral and burial will be private.

While it is not definitely decided it is presumed the Rev. Bergen of Westminister Presbyterian church where Allison attended, will conduct the services. There will be no honorary pall-bearers.

The personnel of the senatorial and congressional delegates has not been made up. They will be announced from Washington likely today.

Custom declares that ten members from each house shall be present Burial will be at Linwood cemetery this city.

NARROW ESCAPE IN FOREST CITY

Auto Party Almost Run Down by a Train.

PREDICTIONS THAT BLOCK WOULD BURN

Are Made by the Citizens of Bellville.

Four Towns Are in the Race for the Democratic State Campaign Opening—Chillicothe, Lancaster, Bucyrus and Akron Make Up the Quartet—No Tidings from Simmross, the Missing Banker.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 6.—A man, said by bystanders to have been John D. Rockefeller, by quick action probably saved himself and an automobile load of friends from what might have been a serious accident. The machine was being driven along Euclid avenue. At the Cleveland & Pittsburg railway crossing the auto was stopped while one of the party in the machine talked with a person who hailed them from the sidewalk. While thus standing a train approached and the gates were lowered. The west gate fell across the machine and would have hit one of the occupants of the auto had not the man, supposed to be Mr. Rockefeller, caught the guard and ordered the chauffeur to go ahead. The auto cleared the track just a few seconds ahead of the approaching train.

Predicted Block Would Burn.

Mansfield, O., Aug. 6.—Testimony brought out at the probe into the Bellville fire developed that two or three persons had predicted that the Smith and Dovel buildings would be destroyed. H. P. Tanner of Bellville testified when put on the stand that he had a revelation that the buildings would be destroyed. Gov Stuff, a young boy, testified that he had a revelation that the buildings would be destroyed about the first of August. It is claimed that premotions were made some time before the fire.

Four Towns In Race.

Columbus, O., Aug. 6.—Four towns are in the race for selection for the Democratic state campaign opening, Chillicothe, Lancaster, Bucyrus and Akron. State Chairman Finley said he would call a meeting of the executive committee within the next few days and that a date and place then would be agreed upon. Judson Harmon of Cincinnati, candidate for governor; W. W. Durbin of Kenton, candidate for auditor, and D. S. Creamer of St. Clairsville, candidate for treasurer, conferred with Mr. Finley.

No Tidings of Missing Banker.

Newark, O., Aug. 6.—No further tidings have been had of Theodore Simmross, the missing banker, from this city. The last heard of him was in Columbus Saturday evening. His partner, John Santa, stated that Mr. Simmross has been verging on mental collapse for the past two weeks, brooding over the seriousness of his condition. Mr. Santa further said that he was at a loss to know what caused the losses.

Hamilton, O., Aug. 6.—William G Frizell, who was nominated for congress by the Third district Republican congressional committee, headed by C. W. Bieser of Dayton, has accepted the nomination in a letter to Bieser. Congressman J. E. Harding reiterated his purpose to remain in the race as an independent, if necessary, after hearing of Mr. Frizell's action.

OFFERED AS A SACRIFICE

"D. Z." At first the police mistook the letters "d" and "a." These facts led the authorities to believe that the boy was a Greek and the finding of the satchel caused the belief that he had only recently come to this country.

All the circumstances indicate one of the most atrocious murders in the history of Chicago. Relatives of various Greek boys living here who have disappeared recently are assisting the police in the search. The father of Tuffa Shishin, fifteen years old, a bootblack, who has been missing since last Saturday today viewed the mutilated torso in an effort to identify it as that of his son. Some of the clothing looked like that of his son, Shishin declared, but he was unable to identify the body.

For some time United States District Attorney Sims has been trying to break up the practice of padronism in Chicago and on several occasions has summoned Greek boys before United States Commissioner Foote to testify. It is believed that one of these boys, who told on his masters recently, may have been murdered in revenge.

Suspect Is a Greek.

The police, though refusing to give the name of the suspect they have under arrest, admitted that he was a Greek, suspected of being the leader of a gang operating a padrone system in this city. The man was arrested in that part of the city known as "Greek town," and so great is the caution exercised lest the detectives who made the arrest become the objects of hatred among the Greek padrones that their names also were kept secret. The arrest was made, it is said, following a conference between the local police and the federal immigration inspectors who collected the evidence on which the padrones were prosecuted by United States District Attorney Sims.

Coroner's Physician Hunter today made a closer examination of the torso found yesterday. He found that, in addition to the horrible mutilation discovered by the hasty examination of last night, the intestines had been cut out and then chopped into fine bits and put back into the torso. A circular piece, cut cleanly from the heart, was also found in the torso.

Cling to Theory.

While the police cling to the theory that the boy was a victim of leaders of the padrone system, numerous theories have been presented to them. They are that the boy was mistreated by a tramp and killed; that he was the victim of an employer in chastisement who killed and then chopped up his body to cover the death; that an unnatural father, an insane man, or "Jack the ripper" slew the boy and, in his frenzy, cut up the body. The latter theory arises from the horrible mutilation of the torso.

A discovery by the police today only served to complicate the case. This was the discovery of a place where a man, accompanied by a boy, purchased shirts and collars a week ago. The police are trying to trace the identity of the purchaser of these articles.

Inspector Dorman, who is in charge of the police investigation said:

"I would not be surprised to learn that much of the evidence we have was manufactured to throw us off the track. It all seems too perfect and clear to be true. It would seem that a man or men who had taken so much pains to mutilate his victim and scatter parts of the body over a space of a mile, would have made further effort to destroy possibility of identification, unless it was done for some definite purpose."

Clothing Identified.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Mrs. Shishein, a Syrian woman, this afternoon identified the clothing found in the satchel which was picked up near the dismembered torso drowned in the drainage canal, as those worn by her son, Toffe Shishein, thirteen years old. The boy disappeared August 2

THE TURKISH CABINET OUT

Sultan Orders the Formation of a New Ministry.

Constantinople, Aug. 6.—Said Pasha, the grand vizier, and the new ministry, have resigned. The sultan has accepted the resignations and immediately appointed Kiamil Pasha to form a ministry. The newspapers assert that Memmed Ali Bey, minister to the United States, has been relieved of his functions. He is the son of Izzel Bey, former secretary and adviser to the sultan, who after the proclamation of the constitution fled aboard the steamer Maria, bound for a Mediterranean port. The notorious Fehmi Pasha, former president of the council of state, has been lynched at Venishair, in the villayet of Brusa, Asia Minor. Memduh Pasha, Hassan Rami Pasha and Rechid Pasha, respectively ex-ministers of the interior and marine and former prefect of Constantinople, were arrested and conducted to the ministry of police amid the jeers and hisses of the populace.

To Avoid Overthrow.

Constantinople, Aug. 6.—The resignation of Said Pasha, the grand vizier, and the sultan's newly-appointed ministry, is taken in official circles here today to mean but one thing—that the sultan will have to yield unreservedly to the demands of the young Turks to save his regime from a complete overthrow.

Despite all of Abdul Hamid's promises of reform and his new declarations that he desires to see his people enjoying the greatest possible measure of self-government, the young Turks, who are the dominant party at present, are deeply suspicious of him. They say he intends to give Turkey only a "paper reform."

The impetuosity of the young Turks is such that unless the sultan acts quickly in conformity to their demands, their military organizations, which have been kept intact, will move against him.

A progressive man is apt to get his back up when asked to come down.

A little learning and a little widow are dangerous things.

BALDWIN AND HIS BALLOON

The Captain Gives His Dirigible Another Test.

MAKES SUCCESSFUL FLIGHT WEDNESDAY

Spectators Gasp at Some of His Maneuvers.

Utility of the Planes Is Demonstrated When the Airship Careens at an Angle of Twenty Degrees or More. First Machine in America Controlled Entirely by Mechanical Means. The Speed Attained.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Captain Baldwin made another successful flight at Fort Myer in his new dirigible balloon. The balloonette, a balloon within the balloon, was tried for the first time. Mr. Curtiss, who again handled the planes and the motor, increased the speed, although the maximum was not attained. As Mr. Curtiss increased the speed of the propeller the airship, in the face of a seven-mile breeze, pitched forward like an ocean liner. Several times the spectators gasped as the ship careened at an angle of 20 degrees, at times almost standing on its pointed nose. It was then that the utility of the planes was demonstrated. When the ship plunged downward Mr. Curtiss standing on the platform 20 feet from the propeller, turned the planes in the opposite direction, and the effect was quickly apparent. Captain Baldwin's machine is the first in America to be controlled entirely by mechanical means. Making various evolutions with and against the wind, the airship was brought down within 100 feet of the tent in which it is housed eight minutes after leaving the ground. Mr. Curtiss estimated the speed was 15 miles an hour, 20 miles going with the wind and 10 miles going against it.

WAREHOUSES ARE FOOD FOR FLAMES

Loss Is Close to Quarter of a Million Dollars.

Midway, Ky., Aug. 6.—The bonded whisky warehouses of Greenbaum Brothers' distillery at this place were attacked by fire, which started from an unknown cause in the rear of warehouse "A" and spread rapidly to the others. Four of the buildings were reduced to a mass of ruins. Forty-seven hundred barrels of whisky in the warehouses were burned and the loss from this source alone is now estimated at $200,000, and may go higher. As the big warehouses were engulfed in flames thousands of barrels of whisky burst, and what was not consumed by the fire poured into a branch of Elkhorn creek near by. The whisky on the water quickly caught fire and the creek became a fiery stream.

NEW MACHINE FOR ZEPPELIN

Airship Maker Already Has Order for One at Hand.

London, Aug. 6.—Percival Spencer, the famous English airship maker, announced today at the Highbury balloon works that he had already received an order for a "gold beater's skin" gas bag for the new airship that Count Zeppelin will have built. He received his order from the count within a few hours after the destruction of the Zeppelin airship at Echterdingen yesterday.

The pattern for the new gas bag will be changed slightly in an effort to minimize the danger from strong air currents.

Another method by which the irritation at the inequalities in our admiration of justice may be reduced by the introduction of a system for the settling of damage suits brought by the employee against public service corporation through official arbitration and without resort to jury trials. Such a system is working in England, as I am informed, and has been successfully inaugurated in Massachusetts.

No one can have sat upon the federal bench, as I did for eight or nine years, and not realize how defective the administration of justice in these cases must have seemed to the defeated plaintiff, whether he was the legless or armless employee himself, or his personal representative.

A BUCKEYE RISKS DEATH TO MARRY

Doctors Tell Bard Trip Will Kill Him, but He Takes It.

New York, Aug. 6.—Love dulling his agonies after an operation for appendicitis, Henry C. Bard, a rich manufacturer of Dayton, Ohio, today began his honeymoon in the St. Regis here, with his bride, formerly Mrs. Nellie F. Stoneman of Columbus, Ohio, after he had risked his life to wed her. Bard was to have married Mrs. Stoneman in June and all was ready for the ceremony when appendicitis struck Bard down. For weeks his life was endangered, and when last Friday he learned that Mrs. Stoneman had come to New York and was staying at the Hotel Walcott here, he determined to follow.

"The trip will kill you," said the doctors. But Bard was determined and on Monday night he registered at the St. Regis. In two hours afterward he had won Mrs. Stoneman's consent to an immediate wedding and had called the Rev. Frank Carland, of Dayton, to hasten here and perform the ceremony. Last night the pastor arrived and today Bard and the new Mrs. Bard are both happy at the St. Regis.

THE EXCURSIONISTS RETURN FROM POINT

A Tired Crowd of Mouser Rooters Reach Home.

SHORT REVIEW OF THE CONVENTION

Resolutions Pledging Loyalty to Taft and Mouser Are Adopted by the Convention—Harmony Is Threatened by a Resolution Which Fails of Adoption—Address by Mouser.

The Mouser boomers' excursion, 500 strong, returned home from Cedar Point, Wednesday night at 9:30 o'clock. In the crowd, which was enlivened upon reaching Marion by the music of three brass bands, was Grant E. Mouser, who for the third time in six years had been unanimously nominated for congress in the Thirteenth district. He went to Cedar Point shortly after noon, Wednesday, in response to the request of party leaders.

There was no big reception or ovation for the congressman when the party returned home. Every rooter had yelled himself hoarse at Cedar Point, and it was a tired bunch of political excursionists that issued from the eight coaches at the Pennsylvania station. Congressman Mouser was frequently cheered on his way from the station to his office, where later he received a number of fellow townsmen who wished to congratulate him. He expressed himself as being highly pleased with the work of the convention in not only nominating him, but in the restoration of harmony in the Republican ranks of the district.

The convention was held in the opera-house at the point. Its delegates which met last April at Bucyrus and held a Foraker and a Taft convention, each electing delegates to the national convention, but adjourning without nominating a congressional candidate in deference to the wish of Congressman Mouser.

The only departure from harmony at any time in Wednesday's convention occurred at the meeting of the committee on resolutions. A plank was introduced endorsing Ohio senators and representatives in congress, but Judge E. B. King, of Erie; John E. Hopley, of Crawford, and C. T. Myers, of Sandusky, were the only members voting for its adoption. Thus was kept down a declaration that might have caused an uproar in the convention and upset all plans for harmony. Each county in the district had two members on the committee, both former rival factions being equally represented.

The resolution put through by the committee and later unanimously adopted in convention, approved the principles and policies enunciated in the national and state platforms, pledged support to the state nominees, professed unswerving devotion and loyalty to Taft and endorsed Mouser's record in congress in behalf of his constituency without regard to political affiliation.

Mr. Mouser was named for a third term by a rising vote, after his name had been presented by Smith W. Bennett. Half an hour after his nomination, Congressman Mouser arrived. In his speech of acceptance he said:

"I want to lick the enemy, and if you stand by me the Thirteenth will continue a Republican district. We fooled them once, then a second time; let's do it again. We have got to play fair, decent politics, and be able to look every man in the face. I can't see that there is going to be any particular trouble in licking Carl Anderson (the Democratic nominee). I believe we can. If you believe you can do a thing you will do it every time."

Congressman Ralph D. Cole, of the Eighth district, was seen and recognized in the gallery. He was called to the stage and made a strong speech on party harmony.

The Republican congressional committee organized, at Cedar Point, before the convention, by electing William Beers, of Bucyrus, chairman, and Marshall E. DeWolfe, of this city, secretary.

Restraining Order, Prohibiting Southern Lines from Enforcing the Proposed Increase in Freight Tariffs Is Knocked Out—Bonds Required Pending Appeal To Protect Shippers from Any Loss.

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 6. — United State Circuit Judge Pardee of Atlanta dissolved the order of Judge Emory Speer, prohibiting the Southern railway, the Louisville & Nashville and other railroads from enforcing the proposed increase in freight rates in the state of Georgia. By the appeal and supersedeas granted by Judge Pardee the railroads interested will be allowed to put their new rates in effect in Georgia as in other states, pending final hearing of the matter.

The order of Judge Speer is the outcome of the action taken by certain railroads which recently gave notice that, effective Aug. 1, they would put into effect an increased freight rate, known as an increase of the Ohio river rates. In the meantime, and before the rates became effective, certain shippers in Georgia appeared before Judge Speer seeking to restrain the roads from putting the rates into effect. Judge Speer granted the restraining order, and an unusual situation was created, with a certain rate in effect in Georgia and another rate in other states.

Judge Speer required of railroads, appearing through counsel, to pay sufficient bonds to protect the shippers who secured from Judge Speer the restraining order, from any loss that they may sustain in the event that the suit is decided adversely to the railroads.

OWN YOUR AUTO OR HIRE CHAUFFEUR

You Can't Use Your Friend's or a Company's Without License.

Columbus, O., Aug. 6.—If one happens to be the president of a corporation and the corporation owns an automobile or other motor vehicle coming within the scope of the Ward automobile law, do not think that he can operate the machine without a chauffeur's license. If one attempts it one is liable to be arrested. At least that is the substance of an opinion rendered by the assistant attorney general yesterday to Secretary of State C. A. Thompson. It follows as a corollary of this, of course, that no officer or employe of a corporation can operate such an auto vehicle without taking out a chauffeur's license.

The assistant attorney general says in the opinion that because one happens to own stock in a corporation, he is in no sense an owner or part owner of the automobile that the corporation owns. The state law permits the owner of an automobile to operate it without taking out a chauffeur's license, and members of the owner's family are also allowed that right. As many corporations own auto trucks and other similar motor vehicles the opinion is important for the reason that it means that all employes operating such vehicles will have to secure chauffeurs' licenses, and so the automobile law's value as a revenue getter is increased.

COX INSISTS UPON FORAKER'S RETURN

The Senatorial Situation Is Big Thing at Cedar Point.

Cedar Point, O., Aug. 6.—Overshadowing every other interest, the United States senatorship looms up as the big feature of the annual reunion of the Ohio legislature. Republican factions will be represented here and the Republican legislative candidates will be approached to indicate their preference.

Cox, it is understood, will insist on the return of Foraker. Cox's representative is not yet on the ground. Doc Crawford of Athens, a Foraker leader, is an early arrival. Neither Burton nor Herrick have representatives. The Burton delegation will get in this afternoon.

The lobbyists of the big interests are doing a little missionary work for Foraker.

The question of opening the Republican state and national campaign will also be considered. Youngstown has been agreed upon as the place. The date is unsettled, but it will be in early September and fixed not to conflict with Labor day or the Grand army reunion at Toledo.

WANTS FLORENCE GIBSON RELEASED

She's Doing a Grave-Sleeping Stunt at Cedar Point.

Sandusky, O., Aug. 5.—The humane society seeks to release Florence Jessie Gibson, nineteen, who is buried five feet below the surface at Cedar Point as a hypnotic experiment.

"A stop will be put to the exhibition if any statute can be found under which the society can proceed," declared Mrs. Fannie Everett, humane officer, after a visit to the "grave."

The girl was placed in a coffin and lowered beneath the earth Saturday night. She is to be resurrected, according to present plans, August 10.

Bundha Kupparow, Hindu mystic, who put the girl in a state of catalepsy and buried her, insists the humane society has no cause for action. He declares that at the end of ten day she will emerge from her sleep in perfect condition.

AMBASSADOR HILL IN UNUSUAL ROLE

Opens the International Conference of Historians.

Berlin, Aug. 6.—The unusual spectacle of the ambasador of one of the great powers playing a leading role in a meeting of the great historians, was seen here today when Dr. David J. Hill, the American ambassador to Germany, opened the international conference on historical science by reading a paper on "The Ethical Function of the Historian." The sessions of the conference are being held in the chamber of the Prussian house of deputies and will continue until August 12. The following Americans will take prominent parts in the conference: D. Greisner, Boston; F. Kapps, Princeton; H. Haskins, Boston; M. Jastrow, Philadelphia; A. C. McGiffort, New York, and K. Francke, Harvard university.

STATE INSTITUTIONS WORRY THE GOVERNOR

State University and Hospital at Athens.

Columbus, O., Aug. 6.—Two state institutions are giving Governor Harris some worry.

Trustee Emmett Tompkins of Ohio State university, called at the executive office, Wednesday, to see what can be done toward passing a pair of shears around the edges of the powers of President Thompson, who, he says, is running things too much to suit himself.

The governor is trying to find a man big enough to weld the Republican factions to act as superintendent of the state hospital at Athens. Dr. E. H. Rorick, former superintendent, was called in consultation today.

A NICE PRESENT FOR UNCLE SAM

Mrs. Russell Sage To Give Him an Island.

New York, Aug. 6.—It has been learned that Uncle Sam may be the object of Mrs. Russell Sage's next philanthropic venture. She is considering the purchase of Constitution island in the Hudson river opposite West Point, intending to give it to the government as a site for a military preparatory school. Friends of Mrs. Sage today say she is much in earnest in the project and will in a few days send a representative to look the island over, and will ask legal advice as to the proper means of presenting the matter to congress.

THE CANADIAN STRIKE GROWS

Twelve Thousand Machinists Are Out Today,

AS RESULT OF THE ORDER TO STRIKE

Not a Wheel Turns on Canadian Pacific.

Even Old Workmen in Line for Pensions Go Home, and It Is Apparently the Most Complete Strike in the History of Canadian Railroad Shops—Caretakers and Foremen Alone Are on Duty.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 6.—Trade-unionism in Canada has given its defy to the Canadian Pacific railway. Without any untoward incident the machinists and kindred workmen quit work, and all shops, big and little, on this great system, are idle. It is estimated that 12,000 men went out, the largest number being 2,200 in Montreal, and 1,500 here. Two thousand men left work between Fort William and Vancouver. Even old workmen in line for pensions went home, and it seems to be the most complete strike in the history of railroad shops in Canada. Every wheel in the shops stopped and every fire died out when the whistle blew several short blasts, caretakers and foremen alone being left to put the places in shape for the period of idleness.

The Canadian Pacific view is that the finding of the board appointed at the request of the men should, in the company's opinion, be binding on the men. The railroad not only did not seek arbitration, but, believing the board hostile to their interest, withdrew their representative, and the government appointed another arbitrator. Despite these facts the board so constituted gave a finding which was accepted by the Canadian Pacific railway under protest. They claim that the men must be bound by the findings just as they are, but they consider that the men's refusal strengthens their position, as the Canadian Pacific railway is not satisfied itself with the decision.

THE REVOLUTION IN TABRIZ ABOUT ENDED

Thousand Lives Lost and Property Worth $1,000,000 Destroyed.

Tabriz, Aug. 6.—After six weeks of fighting in Tabriz, it is apparent today that the revolution has about spent itself and that order will be restored soon. The net result will probably be the loss of 1,000 citizens and soldiers killed in the fighting, the destruction of several million dollars' worth of property, and another million in interruption to trade and the granting of concessions by the Shah that will satisfy the revolutionists for the time at least. The reactionaries have made concessions, and while there is still a feud on between some of these, and the extremists on the other side, a better feeling prevails generally.

SATURDAY - - - - AUGUST 8

How easy it is to make a mistake President Castro says the Dutch minister insulted him. And for months it has been assumed, generally, that he was beyond insult.

Colonel Bryan is naturally not greatly worried over the fact that the odds on Taft and against him are six to one. The colonel, you see, doesn't consider himself much better than a hundred-to-one shot.

No matter whether Mr Castro is in the right or the wrong in the Holland case, it's easy to be seen that he could never pass muster as a pleasant neighbor.

So old Bolivar died last week at Philadelphia; old Bolivar whose six tons made him the heaviest elephant ever in captivity! How time flies. It doesn't seem more than a decade ago that we got up before daylight to see Forepaugh's show and old Bolivar come in. And we weren't alone by any means. Did all who have done likewise stand shoulder to shoulder they wouldn't fall far short of encircling the globe.

The Sultan of Turkey has about half made up his mind to call himself "emperor." On the other hand, the "Young Turks" have about concluded to refer to him as "the late sultan."

With seven presidential candidates in the field, Colonel Bryan won't feel so lonely after the election.

The fellow, who recently struck a country where political discussions of all kinds and campaigning was barred save for a week before the dates of the nominations and elections, thought he was in heaven till he awakened.

Professor Herbert L. Willet, of the University of Chicago divinity school, says that fiction was used by Christ to teach truths and denies that miracles were ever performed. It will be almost a miracle if that doesn't prove his finish.

"I was talking to a fellow last night," said the fellow who lives next door on the way down town this morning, "who was just as sure, apparently, of his party's success this fall as he was that he was living. But it's hard to tell. There's nothing absolutely sure about politics. In fact the political game comes pretty near being as full of deception as a cantaloupe.

That new method of making a rattlesnake harmless by sticking gum on its fangs is an evident infringement on that old plan of catching a bird by sprinkling salt on its tail.

While it may have its effect, it must be manifest that it takes something beside whisky to lead to lynchings in the South.

Now that August is here it may be well for anybody suffering from sneezing fits to check up their bank accounts to determine whether they have hay fever or simple colds.

There appears to be a well-defined campaign on to scare Governor Harris into a sick spell, possibly to induce the thought that he may be too old for governor, but whoever thinks that kind of a scare can be thrown into Governor Harris has another guess coming.

Another disagreeable phase of the possibility of war between Holland and Venezuela would be the marked tendency it would have to lead to topical songs containing the line—"It was the Dutch."

About the time another lot or two of cadets carry their cases over the head of the superintendent of West Point to the secretary-of-war it's easy to appreciate the jolly good time he will have maintaining discipline there.

It is claimed that snake-bite is almost unknown in Georgia since the state went dry.

If Colonel Bryan really wants to make a hit with the public, he should go after the brevity record in his speech of acceptance.

Although the bathing at Esopus is just as good as ever, the place is not maintaining its one-time reputation as a summer resort.

Somebody has discovered that Candidate Hisgen is a manufacturer of axle grease, but it's not his grease which is being used to make slippery the political ways.

According to John Temple Graves, the Independence party has no steam roller. What does John call the "Big Noise" in the Journal office?

Still, Abdul Hamid didn't take to the constitutional parachute till he saw the government balloon bursting.

Anyway, what's the use of a railroad going into the hands of a receiver so long as that eminent railroad specialist, Dr. E. H. Harriman, is in the vicinity and ready to prescribe for what ails it?

A Cleveland paper tells about a woman who lived to 107 by eating naturally-ripened fruit. If naturally-ripened fruit is an essential to longevity, the most of us may just as well make up our minds that we are going to die young.

Mr. Taft need not have any misapprehensions. While we may hesitate about calling him "Bill" he may rest assured we will not address him as "Willie."

Mr. Ingalls appears to be of the opinion that Mr. Harriman's intimation that his motives in gobbling up railroads is purely philanthropic should be decorated with a nice little label reading "Rot."

Taft's Personal Strength.

One million copies of the speech delivered by the next president at Cincinnati when he was notified of his nomination will be distributed throughout the country. The districts and states which are supposed to be most in need of sound Republican doctrine will receive the largest part of this contribution to the common sense of government and the truth of political doctrine.

Before the campaign comes near its end this multitude of pamphlets of the Taft speech may be doubled That will happen if the people of the United States learn enough of its quality to judge it fairly. The speech is long but it is good reading throughout. It is clear, fair, convincing. It can't help making friends and winning votes where it goes and is read.

But it is unfortunate that the printed words have to do service instead of their author. It would be well for the country if Taft himself could speak to all of the voters who will receive copies of his speech, and meet them face to face.

Not that there is magic in his oratory. He has little of the charm of eloquence which is in the voice, the gesture, the facial expression of the born manipulator of crowds. The effect of a Taft speech lies in its thought and substance, its revelation of the nature of the man himself

Yet William Howard Taft's personal appeal is very potent He gains the confidence of his hearers by his soul true, kindly and broad nature. His character shows in his face, his tones, his whole bearing upon the platform. No one can come in contact with him and fail to feel his influence and his power.

Those who talk of Taft as pleasant and sensible but wanting in force and distinction do not know the man. They have never seen or heard him, or else they do not speak candidly. They can find no such opinion among his intimates, friendly or otherwise.

Before the end of the next president's first term the country will forget that anyone ever questioned the great strength in body, mind and soul of the Republican leader of 1908. It will seem incredible that such doubts should have existed, in respect to such a man even when emerging into the foremost place in the public life of the United States from behind the dazzling personality of Theodore Roosevelt.—Cleveland Leader.

FIGHTING TUBERCULOSIS.

The whole civilized world will watch with unremitting interest the deliberations of the forthcoming tuberculosis congress at Washington. The best minds of the medical profession and humanitarians will make up this body, and plans will be laid for an unceasing onslaught against the "great white plague."

From various expressions by newspapers, health officers and others interested in the betterment of the physical condition of mankind generally it is plain an effort will be made to have congress provide for a governmental bureau of health, with a secretary at its head who shall be a member of the president's cabinet.

Health Officer Friedrich, of Cleveland is one of the most enthusiastic advocates of the proposition, and one of his arguments are worthy of consideration "The government," he says, "has spent millions to prevent the spread of disease among sheep and to fight pests that infect the crops, but not a cent to prevent disease among human beings."

This is putting it pretty strong. Doubtless what Dr. Friedrich meant to say was that the government does not devote the attention to the maintenance of health among human beings that it does to that of cattle.

The bureau of public health and marine hospital service, of which Surgeon General Wyman is the efficient head, has done and is doing a vast deal of good in preventing and allaying disease; but no one will question the advisability of having the means and power to cope with disease increased, particularly with reference to tuberculosis.—Pittsburg Post.

It takes a tender heart to do the really hard things.

Plants Have Intelligence.

Darwin, the naturalist, when he promulgated his theory that plants were endowed with intelligence, was met with the severe criticisms of brother scientists and the widespread incredulity of the reading public. The naturalist did not abandon his theory, though he may not have urged it militantly. The British association will shortly hold a jubilee in memory of the great man and the theories he advanced. Francis Darwin, a son will preside, and the announcement is made in London that in his inaugural address he will reiterate the contention of his famous father that plants are endowed with intelligence.

There is reason to believe that the reiteration will receive a welcome that the original assertion did not have. The belief is growing that everything endowed with life has, in its degree, intelligence. In a suburban town, where the drought of the past month is greatly mourned by growers of flowers as well as the farmers, dwells a man whose days of hard labor with the unyielding nature of iron and steel are relieved by an hour or two of cultivation of a few flower plants. The other morning he said to a sympathetic listener. "Say, them flowers think. They do more—they ask for things. No dog ever asked me for water more plainly than them flowers of mine asked me last night. They were thirsty and they leaned right to me last night when I went out with the watering can. And you just ought to have heard 'em drink and sigh with satisfaction over it." Similar expressions are heard from cultivators of plants in such small areas that they can be observed and loved.—Brooklyn Eagle.

STORM KING SWEEPS ACROSS THE COUNTY

Much Damage Is Done by the Lightning.

BARN IS BURNED IN RICHLAND TOWNSHIP

Building Is Owned by August Goerlich and Is Struck by Lightning. Store of William Gabler Is Struck by Lightning at Waldo—Heavy Rain and Electrical Storms.

The large barn of August Goerlick in Richland township was destroyed by fire as a result of being struck by lightning during the electric storm, which passed over this section, Tuesday afternoon. This makes the third barn Mr. Goerlick has had destroyed by fire within the past two years. The first fire was due to the upsetting of a lantern and the origin of the second fire was never learned.

Mr. Goerlick estimates his loss in Tuesday's fire at $3,000, partially covered by insurance.

A few minutes before the barn was struck, Daniel Allmendinger had left the building and gone to the house. Several tons of hay and many bushels of wheat and oats, farming implements and vehicles were destroyed. The horses were rescued.

The flames spread rapidly and within a remarkably short time the big barn was reduced to a black mass of ruins. The huge blaze attracted the farmers to the scene for a radius of several miles.

During the same storm, lightning struck the store of William Gabler at Waldo. Mr. Gabler and his son were standing in front of the building at the time, but they did not know it had been struck until Phillip Augenstine informed them Augenstine saw the fire in the basement of the store from his livery barn. Before the fire department arrived Mr. Gabler put out the blaze with a chemical extinguisher.

The lightning ran down the spouting at the southwest corner of the Gabler building, passed through the stone foundation, breaking one of the stones and dislodging the mortar, through an empty tank and a barrel filled with coal-oil, with the top open, to an empty box on a chair beside the coal-oil barrel The box was burned up and the outside of the coal-oil barrel was charred That the coal-oil did not ignite is regarded remarkable.

During the night another severe electrical and rain storm passed over the county. The lightning and terrific thunder aroused many people from their slumbers.

Traffic on the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Railway company was delayed a short time, Tuesday evening, as a result of lightning striking near Delaware, but the damage was soon repaired Wednesday morning lightning punctured a transformer at the plant of the Marion Railway, Light & Power company, but the damage was repaired within a short time.

A number of telephones were put out of business, but Manager D. M. Odaffer of the Marion County Telephone company states that the damage is comparatively slight.

Dr. E. H. Raffensperger, the official weather observer, said that from Tuesday noon until Wednesday morning there was a rainfall of one and one-quarter inches. The temperature Tuesday reached ninety-five degrees, but with the approach of the storm fell rapidly.

In connection with Dr. Raffensperger's statement, Tuesday, in explanation of why it is usually hotter here than in the larger cities, a line or two of type left out made Dr. Raffensperger's statement appear ridiculous. The type should have said that in the larger cities the government thermometer is placed on the top of the topmost buildings, while here it is placed in the regular government shelter-house near the ground, which fact the official weather observer says, accounts for the temperature being higher here than it is in Columbus.

MOUSER IS CHOICE OF THE CONVENTION

Is Named for Congress at Cedar Point Wednesday.

NOMINATION MADE BY ACCLAMATION

The Delegates from the Various Counties of the Thirteenth Congressional District Unite in the Renomination of Mouser—The Work of Convention Done in Harmony.

Convention Hall, Cedar Point, Aug 5.—[Special.]—Hon. Grant E Mouer, of Marion, was today named by the Republicans of the Thirteenth district, assembled in convention here, to succeed himself in congress. It was a Mouser convention from first to last and from the arrival of the various delegations till the convention closed, without day, the congressman was the only man considered Enthusiasm was at the highest throughout the day.

The convention was called to order by J. D. Bemis, of Fremont, chairman of the congressional committee, the representation being excellent. In his remarks, Mr. Bemis aroused a burst of applause by the mention of Congressman Mouser's name. Mr. Bemis concluded by introducing W. J. Geer, of Crawford county, and George A Root, as temporary chairman and secretary, respectively.

Mr. Geer was enthusiastically received and made an excellent speech which was roundly applauded His references to President Roosevelt, Candidate Taft and Congressman Mouser were cheered to the echo.

Following Mr Geer's address, the various committees were named and the customary routine work of the convention transacted. Judge Edward Vollrath, was the recommendation of the committee on permanent organization for permanent chairman. The announcement was also made that Congressman Mouser would arrive at 2 45 o'clock, at which time it was arranged to give him a royal reception.

Judge L. W Bowers, of Upper Sandusky, was chairman of the resolution committee. There was a short argument as to the endorsement of the United States senators, but the endorsement was defeated.

Smith W. Bennett, of Bucyrus, presented the name of Congressman Mouser His speech was vociferously received.

Immediately following Mr. Bennett's speech—at 3.10—Mr., Mouser was unanimously renominated.

Marion County Committmen.

Cedar Point, O., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—H. N. Quigley and Marshall E. DeWolfe were chosen by the Marion county delegation as members of the congressional committee, H. N. Quigley and John Crawley on resolutions and Fred W. Warner and John H. Clark on the combined committee.

Delegation Arrives.

Convention Hall, Aug. 5.—[Special.]—The Marion delegation 500 strong with three bands arrived here about 11:30 o'clock after a parade at Sandusky which brought forth much applause and aroused enthusiasm. Three county delegations have gotten together and the Diamond faction will attend the convention and assist in the harmonious nomination of Mouser. The Marion county delegation was warmly received.

Holiday for Merchants.

Five hundred people and three brass bands accompanied the excursion of Mouser rooters to Cedar Point from Marion, Wednesday Preparations had been made to carry 1,000 people by the Pennsylvania company, but the threatening weather, it is believed, kept many from going

The day being observed as a holiday by most of the merchants, the down-town streets were in a measure quiet. Grocery stores, restaurants, drug stores and saloons remained open.

Between 7 and 8 o'clock the Marion band, the Baker band and the Knights of Pythias band of Prospect assembled on the public square and for half an hour or more entertained the excursionists with stirring airs.

A large crowd followed the bands to the Pennsylvania station, where eight coaches were boarded for Cedar Point The train left here at 8 o clock, and returned at the same hour that evening.

HON. GRANT E. MOUSER.

Mr. Mouser Was Nominated Today by the Republicans of the Thirteenth District in Convention at Cedar Point To Succeed Himself in Congress.

JOHN HERRIGEL IS THE VICTIM OF OLD GAME

Stranger Gives Horse as Security for Loan.

WAITS IN VAIN FOR RETURN OF FELLOW

Real Owner of Horse Appears and Is Obliged To Call an Officer To Secure Possession of His Property. Herrigel Is Out Three Dollars. Local Police Court Notes.

A fellow in need of a little money worked an old game on John Herrigel, Wednesday evening, and as a result Herrigel is just three dollars poorer today, but possibly got some return in knowledge. Herrigel was standing on north Main street, early in the afternoon, when a stranger approached him and chatted a moment in a friendly way. The stranger examined a horse hitched in front of the Racket store and, turning to Herrigel, asked the loan of three dollars and a half. He told Herrigel he could hold his horse for security until he came back, as he only wanted to go over to a nearby place and pay a small bill and would then secure the money and return it

Herrigel examined the horse and, finding it gentle and easily worth three times the amount of the loan, he reached in his pocket, but found that he had but three dollars. The man said that would be sufficient and Herrigel took charge of the rig. Three hours elapsed and Herrigel was still waiting for the return of the man to whom he made the loan, when the real owner of the horse finally appeared and started to untie the horse. He was stopped by Herrigel. The man tried to explain that the rig was his property, but Herrigel refused to believe him and, before the owner could secure possession of the outfit, he was compelled to call an officer. It was then that Herrigel related his story and it was made known to him that he had been buncoed out of his money. Herrigel claimed that he knew the man when he saw him, but was unable to give a description of the fellow who relieved him of his three silvers.

Al Humes was arrested on north Main street, Wednesday evening, by Officers Slagle and Shaffer, and a charge of drunkenness was placed against him. Humes pleaded guilty to the charge when arraigned before the mayor, next morning, and was fined five dollars. He paid part of the amount and by leaving his watch and arranging to pay the remainder, was released.

CUPID BADLY FOOLED IN PROBATE COURT

Lewis Columber Fails To Get Marriage License.

BRIDE FAILS TO BE OF SUFFICIENT AGE

Young Man Does Not State Age Correctly and Then Claims To Have Consent of Guardian—He Is Denied a License Pending an Investigation as to Guardian.

Love may find a way, but Cupid got badly fooled in the probate court, Wednesday afternoon, when Lewis Columber, a strapping young farmer, appeared to obtain a license to wed Miss Oddie M. Cooper. He gave his age as twenty-three and the age of his bride as eighteen years. After the young man had answered all of the necessary questions demanded by the law, the probate judge recalled that at one time in his court a guardian had been appointed for one Oddie M. Cooper. He consulted his records and was not surprised when he found that his memory had not failed him. But it was hard on the young man, whose breast had been pierced by those fabled little darts always carried by that nabob of the heart realm.

"How old did you say Miss Cooper was?" the young man was asked.

"She is eighteen—eighteen years old last June, I think."

The records show that the girl will not be eighteen until next June, so the applicant was refused a license without the written consent of her guardian.

The young man declared that the guardian had given his consent, but had gone to Minnesota. The marriage license man was firm in his refusal to grant a license, however, without having positive knowledge of the guardian's consent, and Columber left the court-house with disappointment in his heart.

Richard Rizor, a farmer in Bowling Green township, is the girl's guardian.

THE STRANGEST BAND IN AMERICA TODAY

The Mirze-Golem Acrobats with Big Show.

FROM THE COURT OF SHAH OF PERSIA

The Acrobats Are Long Held as the Private Entertainers of the Shah and Are Not Seen Outside Royal Court—Coming with the Ringling Brothers' Circus.

Probably the strangest band of people in America today are the Mirze-Golem acrobats who will be seen in Marion next Monday with Ringling brothers' circus. Until this season this strange family had never been seen outside the court of the Shah of Persia, where they have long enjoyed the distinction of being the favorite entertainers of the "Commander of the Faithful."

To Edgar Linden, an agent of Ringling brothers stationed at Constantinople, is due the honor of persuading the Shah to release the Golems for a season's tour of America, an American diplomat at Teheran arranging the audience. When Linden entered the royal presence, the Shah was seated on an oriental couch amid rich drapings. Prostrating himself at the feet of the monarch, the circus man went at once to the subject, asking through an interpreter for the release of the Mirze-Golems.

The Shah allowed the agent to dwell at length upon the renown that would fall upon him through the extensive traveling of his illustrious performers. When Linden had finished, the monarch thrust him toward the door with his foot, but as the guards were bearing the frightened showman out of the room, the Shah arose and beckoning them to return, he said:

"Command the Golems to appear before me that I may show this presumptuous infidel what he asks is impossible. Even were I to consent, think you they would go to a land where women walk unveiled on the public streets, and mere girls go about at will, unescorted?"

When the Golems appeared they were delighted with the idea of foreign travel. The elder Golem threw himself down at the side of the circus man.

"Gracious master," he said, lifting his face to the Shah, "grant us leave to do what this good man asks and we will bless you all the days of our life."

The humor of the situation struck the Shah, who had expected an indignant refusal, and he laughed heartily.

"Very well," he said, "since you wish it, and since some unusual reward is due one who has served me so long, it shall be as you wish, though I can not say I am pleased."

THE MIRZE-GOLEM ACROBATS.

OFFICIAL REPORT OF THE CROP CONDITIONS

Statement Based on Reports of Correspondents.

WHEAT HARVEST UNUSUALLY EARLY

A Large Amount of Threshing Is Done Before August 1—The Wheat Yield Is Slightly Better Than Last Year—Some Damage Is Done by Storms—Other Crops of State.

The following report, showing percentage estimates of the condition or prospect of the crops is based upon reports received from the regular crop correspondents of the Ohio department of agriculture.

Wheat, prospect compared with an average, 82 per cent.; average date of harvest, June 29.

Oats, prospect compared with an average, 65 per cent; average date of harvest, July 19.

Barley, average date of harvest, July 8.

Rye, average date of harvest, July 2.

Clover, area sown in 1907 cut for hay, 80 per cent.; hay, product per acre, 1.57 tons; quality compared with an average, 97 per cent.

Timothy, prospect compared with an average, 86 per cent.

Potatoes, prospect compared with an average, 77 per cent.

Tobacco, condition compared with an average, 79 per cent.

Pastures, condition compared with an average, 90 per cent.

Apples, prospect compared with an average, 53 per cent.

Peaches, prospect compared with an average, 66 per cent.

Pears, prospect compared with an average, 71 per cent.

Grapes, prospect compared with an average, 86 per cent.

Berries—product compared with an average, 95 per cent.

The wheat harvest this year was unusually early, the average date, June 29, being two weeks in advance of the harvest of one year ago A large amount of threshing has at this date been completed and reports from same vary considerably over the state as a whole, as deduced from the returns of the official correspondents of the department, is estimated at eighty-two per cent. compared with an average, four per cent. less than the estimate of July 1. Compared with the corresponding month of 1907 the prospect is two per cent. in advance of that estimate.

Heavy rainfalls occurred in some sections of the state during the past month while wheat was standing out in shock, causing some damage, and there is also considerable complaint of injury by joint worm. Sufficient threshing will soon be completed to determine with approximate correctness the actual product of this year's harvest.

Oats show a further decline in prospect since the last report, being now estimated at sixty-five per cent. compared with an average. The seeding generally was late and the effect of the long continued drouth during the month of June is now shown in the present poor prospect reported.

The quality of clover hay is excellent, while the average product an acre is satisfactory

While in this report no percentage figures are shown on corn prospects, from the notes on same reported by the correspondents the prospect is quite promising.

Compared with the July report potatoes have declined seven per cent. in prospect, being now estimated at seventy-seven per cent. compared with an average.

Fruit prospects compared with an average are as follows: Apples fifty-three per cent; peaches, sixty-six per cent.; pears, seventy-one per cent.

Seven Presidential Aspirants.

The participants in the great presidential sweepstakes are ready for the word to start. There are seven of them, making the largest field, with the exception of 1872 and 1900, in the history of American politics. Secretary Taft, the Republican candidate, has already been "notified." Mr. Bryan, the leader of the Democrats, is to be given the news of his nomination on August 12. Thomas Watson of Georgia, the nominee of the People's party, has long since begun his campaign. Eugene Chafin carries the hopes of the Prohibitionists. Mr. Hisgen of Massachusetts leads the Hearst Independence league, Mr. Debs of Chicago strike fame is the candidate of the Socialists and one Mr. Preston, at present sojourning behind the bars of a western prison, is the involuntary nominee of the Socialist Labor party dominated by Daniel DeLeon.

Preston is below the age prescribed by the federal constitution as necessary for one who serves as president, he has foreited his citizenship by being convicted of a felony and he declines the nomination. If he should be elected he could not serve because under age; if he were not under age he could not serve because he is held for a twenty-five-year term in prison for shooting a man; if both these unsurmountable objections were removed his refusal to accept the nomination would still take him out of the running. The Preston candidacy would be humorous, were it not so pitiful.

Only twice before have there been a longer list of presidential aspirants than now. In 1872 Horace Greely's capture of the double nomination of the Democratic and Liberal Republican parties left so many dissatisfied Democrats that three of them decided to try their hand and entered as candidates. This made a field of eight. Again in 1900 there were eight candidates. Even these records may be equaled this year if the National People's party carries out a half formed intention of placing a ticket in nomination. Voters of all tastes should be able to find candidates to their liking this year.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A man can be very fond of his family when they pretend to like to have him smoke an old pipe.

THE BIG CIRCUS WILL BE HERE NEXT MONDAY

Ringling Brothers Have a Great Exhibition.

THE FOREIGN TALENT VERY FINE FEATURE

Plenty of Music and Comedy in the Exhibition—The Seats Arranged with View to Comfort and Convenience of Patrons—The Sale of Tickets Down Town.

The greatest circus day in the history of Marion will come next Monday with the arrival here of Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest shows. No show ever enjoyed the popularity of the Ringling Brothers. They revolutionized the circus business and lifted the standard of the profession, introducing a policy of honest and business-like dealings with the public which has been a strong factor in their success.

The people of this city and the surrounding country have much to look forward to. The report comes from other cities that never in its brilliant history has Ringling Brother's circus presented such a splendid array of foreign talent, such magnificent parade equipment, so many strange animals or such beautiful horses. The performance is one of remarkable strength, gorgeous in costume, infinite in variety, artistic in arrangement and fairly teeming with thrilling incidents.

There is more than a generous amount of comedy, the incidental music is charming, the seating arrangements are vastly more comfortable than are to be found with other shows and throughout the entire day the magic touch of the Ringling policy shows itself in ways highly gratifying to patrons.

The circus has been refitted with twelve acres of new waterproof canvas, 102 recently imported cages and dens, hundreds of golden band chariots, floats, vans and tableau cars of the parade and a completely rebuilt city of shops, lighting plants, hotels, offices and dressing rooms.

Thousands of visitors are expected in the city on the day of the show and for the benefit of those who wish to avoid the crowds on the show grounds arrangements have been made to open a downtown branch ticket office at Strayer Brothers' drug store where reserved seats and admissions may be bought at regular ticket-wagon prices.

A boy about thirteen years of age walked from Marion to Morral Sunday. The lad seemed to be lost. He went to the home of W. W. Morral to get a drink, and when Mr. Morral questioned him, found he had a ticket from Fostoria to Alvada. The conductor had taken him on through to Marion. Mr. Morral gave the lad his supper and then sent him home on a train. Tuesday Mr. Morral received a letter from the boy's mother thanking him profusely for his kindness.

Miss Mabel Richards has returned from visiting Mrs. Charles Ritzler at Green Camp.

You may have a way of your own, but you need not expect always to have your own way.
